Truman Calls for $18 Billions To Bolster Defenses Quickly; 8 Divisions Peril U. N. Flank

Profits Tax Vote Is Set For Tuesday By Rules Unit

Senate Committee Plans Open Hearings Starting Monday On Revenue Measure

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Congress yesterday prepared to act quickly on increased corporation taxes as the President's call for billions for the military put new steam behind all defense measures.

The House Rules Committee unanimously cleared a 3.4 billion dollars excess profits tax bill to the House floor. Debate will open Monday and a final House vote was slated for Tuesday.

The Senate Finance Committee ordered public hearings starting Monday on the same tax bill. Senate Finance Chairman Walter F. George (D., Ga.) said he hoped to conclude hearings within a week.

Earlier the first break occurred in the Republican Party line against the new profits tax measure. The Ways and Means Committee formally reported the bill by a 19-to-6 vote. The individual line-up was not announced but four Republicans apparently joined 15 Democrats for the bill.

Parties Back Defense Plea

The nonpartisan reception that greeted the President's call for $17,978,247,000 in new defense billions highlighted the complete change in atmosphere that has settled over the Capitol since the grim shift in the Korean situation.

Prospects for all defense-related measures continued to brighten but only on the session's key mission, more billions for the military, were party ranks completely closed.

Apparently doomed by the war's turn was the still filibuster-bound Alaskan bill and the twinned Hawaiian statehood measure. The Senate recessed until Monday without even a vote on the motion to call up the Alaskan measure, which has been pending for a week.

Most Southern Democrats and Republicans at that time will get behind a motion by Senate Banking Chairman Burnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.) to displace statehood with the defense-related 60-day extension of rent controls.

Statehood Vote Urged

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), floor manager for statehood, indicated he will not object to priority for rent control, providing the Senate will agree to a vote on calling up the Alaskan measure following disposal of rent control, probably Wednesday.

Three Republican Senators meanwhile took the floor to contend, like O'Mahoney, that statehood now for both strategically located territories would strengthen our defenses, psychologically and militarily.

Floridian Put In Charge of Civil Defense

Truman Sets Up Independent Agency By Executive Order

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

The White House late yesterday announced the appointment of former Gov. Millard F. Caldwell, jr., of Florida as the Nation's new civil defense boss.

At the same time, President Truman created by executive order an independent agency to be known as the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

The strapping, 53-year-old appointee, former House member, now a practicing lawyer, will receive $17,500 annually as civil defense administrator.

White House sources assumed James J. Wadsworth, temporary head of the civil defense program in the National Security Resources Board, will be asked to remain in the new administration.

Caldwell is authorized to appoint a deputy administrator at a $16,000-a-year salary.

The Floridian accepted the top defense job in a visit with the President yesterday afternoon.

On leaving the White House, Caldwell told reporters:

"It's a tremendous undertaking to bring the public to the consciousness of the need (for civil defense), and then to execute a program that will be productive of maximum safety."

He added that he had "no news as to the course we will take" except to say "we will be very careful in making decisions."

Mayors of several cities recently have been critical of the Truman Administration for delays in formulating a definite civil defense policy.

In this connection, the President's executive order said the 'basic purpose" of the new civil defense administration "shall be to promote and facilitate" the civil defense of the United States "in cooperation with several States."

Caldwell's appointment will be temporary, pendng enactment of civil defense legislation filed in Congress Thursday.

The President established the new agency in the Office of Emergency Management of the Executive Offices. It will be financed from the President's emergency contingency fund.

All personnel and activities of the NSRB civil defense section will be transferred to the Caldwell administration.

The fact that Mr. Truman made the appointment before Congress acted upon legislation for a permanent civil defense setup, some observers said, indicated the urgency with which he views civil preparedness in light of Korean news. Caldwell will start his new job early next week.

At the Capitol, the Administration bill promised to be highly controversial. A debate is shap-

Inquiry Set Into District Communism

Local Union Feud To Figure in Probe Ordered by House Un-American Group

By Edward F. Ryan and Sam Stavisky
Post Reporters

Bitter feuding in the high command of one of Washington's largest AFL building unions is slated to figure in House hearings next week into communism in the District of Columbia, it was learned last night.

The hearings are to start at the Capitol at 10 a. m. Wednesday. They will be held in Room 226, Old House Office Building. The program was announced by Chairman John S. Wood of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Wood said that 16 subpenas have been issued, including some for former members of the Communist Party in the District.

Two of the subpenas are for warring top-level officials of Local 74 of the AFL Building Laborers' Union, both admitted former Communists, who say they have left the party.

Thomas, Sampler Called

The officials are Henry Thomas, president and Tom Sampler, secretary-treasurer.

The one-time friends have been engaged in a battle for control of the 3000-member union. This has caused exchanges of blows among their followers and charges of Communist ties have figured in the maneuvering of the two officials.

In October, Thomas was suspended as president of the local after trial by the executive board on charges of "Communist affiliation." The action was subject to a November 1 membership meeting.

Before the members could meet, the executive board reversed itself, reinstated Thomas, and ordered Sampler, his chief accuser, to trial on charges of disrupting the union. Later the members ratified Thomas reinstatement. Sampler's trial resulted in acquittal, but this is subject to confirmation by another membership meeting next Wednesday.

Say They Quit Party

Both Thomas and Sampler have publicly admitted they used to belong to the Communist Party. Both say they left the party some time ago. Both signed non-Communist affidavits required of union leaders under the Taft-Hartley law.

The Justice Department has been investigating the union dispute for possible violation of the Taft-Hartley law.

Several other members of the union are understood to have been subpenaed by the House committee.

Committee aides, and Chairman Wood declined to disclose names of the persons subpenaed for next week's hearing.

Wood announced the hearings as a renewal of the committee's investigation of last year into communism here.

Army Issues Draft Call For 50,000

The Army yesterday announced it would induct 50,000 draftees in February, for a total of 300,000 since the outbreak of the war in Korea.

The February call was surprisingly small in view of the announcement that the President intends to raise the level of the armed forces to 2,700,000 by spring.

However, there is the possibility that later this month the Army will issue a supplementary call for February inductions. For October, the Army asked first for 30,000 men, then hiked the call to 50,000.

The Navy and Air Force meanwhile announced relaxation of regular enlistment requirements.

Both services yesterday reduced mental qualification standards for enlistees. The Navy further liberalized its restriction on applicants having dependents, while the Air Force lowered physical demands to conform to those of the draft law.

Defense Department officials explained that a lack of winter training facilities, together with a shortage of officers caused by dispatch of so many to Korea, prevented the Army from calling a larger number of draftees at this time.

The Army's draft calls to date have been as follows: September, 50,000; October, 50,000; November, 70,000; December, 40,000; January, 40,000.

The February national call of 50,000 will mean a draft of around 250 men in the District, 740 in Maryland, and 1090 in Virginia.

An Air Force spokesman said relaxation of requirements is designed to increase manpower, not only at the "poorest enlisting time of the year"—Thanksgiving and Christmas—but also in the future, to provide more men "to expand as rapidly as we know we've got to expand."

Mental standards will require a minimum score of 21 for enlistees except WAFs, instead of the former minimum of 31. Previously, male enlistees with at least a completed high school education could enlist with a score of 21, while all other enlistees, including WAFs, were held to a minimum of 31. The WAF minimum will continue at 31.

These scores are comparable to 80 and 90 in the more familiar "general classification test" terminology used in all services.

The Navy would not say to what extent its mental qualifications were reduced. Information from one source was that it was "very great."

Regular Navy enlistments in the grades of seaman recruit and seaman apprentice, heretofore restricted to single men with no dependents, will be open to applicants with one dependent.

There are no dependency restrictions for enlistment in the grade of seaman and above.

Six Red Armies Building Up for Attack; Planes Bomb Pyongyang

TOKYO (Saturday), Dec. 2 (AP). — Eight of 18 Chinese Red divisions massed in northwest Korea today were reported bearing down toward the east flank of the new United Nations defense line.

Swarms of United States Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers strafed and rocketed the southbound columns, inflicting heavy casualties.

Six Communist armies—at full strength each has 40,000 troops—appeared building up for a powerful attack aimed at turning the U. N. right flank and rolling on to Pyongyang, the former North Korean capital 30 miles south of the new defense line.

The abated Communist offensive, which already has rolled the United States Eighth Army back 40 miles, appeared developing against Songchon. It guards the flank of U. N. defense 30 miles north of Pyongyang.

In the snowy northeast sector, cut-off American Marines and infantrymen made slow headway on both sides of the Changjin Reservoir in efforts to break out of Red traps and pull back south.

Red losses were heavy. Tenth Corps officers said more than 6000 of the enemy have been killed in northeast Korea in the past five days.

United States Tenth Corps headquarters reported that Marines on the west side of the ice-covered reservoir had abandoned Yudam and were under fierce attack from three sides. The Leatherernecks were trying to reach Hagaru, at the south end of the reservoir 10 miles southeast of Yudam.

United States Seventh Division infantrymen on the east side still were hemmed in against the reservoir.

Enemy fire also kept closed a 7-mile segment of the main supply route south between Hagaru and Koto.

The lull which fell over the critical northwest since Thursday

Many Chinese Closer To Seoul Than Yanks

WITH SECOND DIVISION, Dec. 1 (NYHT).—Masses of Chinese still are pouring southward down the center of the Korean peninsula and already are closer to Seoul than are most of the U. N. forces.

It would take a major miracle now to effect a union of the Eighth Army forces with the United States Tenth Corps, which has been fighting an independent war in northeastern Korea.

A heavy force of Chinese infantry with armored vehicles was observed moving southward through Kunu-ri, and it appeared the supreme crisis was near.

General With Jeep and Rifle Runs Four-Mile Red Gantlet

NYHT News Service

WITH U. S. SECOND DIVISION, Dec. 1.—In the withdrawal from the Chongchon River line, the Second Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Laurence B. Keiser, suffered the heaviest casualties inflicted by the Chinese on any American division, but the gallant rear-guard action undoubtedly saved the Eighth Army from disaster.

Battle-weary survivors and vanloads of wounded finally reached secure ground today. The bulk of the division was obliged to ram through 4 miles of enemy roadblocks in its retreat from Kunu-ri. Keiser's jeep was peppered with at least seven bullet holes.

The General himself was out on the road much of the time, firing at snipers and machinegun nests with his pet Springfield rifle and yelling encouragement to the men. The Chinese, hidden on wooded ridges to the left of the narrow, curving road, had mortars as well as machine guns.

Several vehicles were knocked out and set afire, and then the whole column had to halt while men helped to shove burning trucks off the road. Occasionally ammunition trucks would explode. Soon there were wounded in almost every vehicle. Some of the men alighted and fought their way out on foot.

"Believe me, the old man can get in and out of the jeep pretty fast," said General Keiser's driver.

Drastic Controls Studied To Meet New Military Outlays

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The economic impact of another 18 billion dollars of defense outlays, bringing the total military and atomic budget for this fiscal year to 50 billions, appeared to Government economists yesterday as leading—soon—to these steps:

1. The imposition of wage and price controls, the timing of which will depend on assembling the necessary administrative staff, and the arriving at a decision on whether the start will be made through some selective ceilings or over-all.

2. The limitation on the production of many heavy metal-using items for civilian use, and much sharper cutbacks in the nonmilitary consumption of almost every metal, several chemicals, some building materials and possibly some textiles.

3. The adoption, probably by next spring, of a controlled materials plan, under which all supplies of those scarce raw materials would be allocated to the users by the Government.

Less certain, but even so quite probable, according to some high Government sources, was the convening of a labor-management conference, in the attempt to arrive at a "voluntary" agreement for a "mandatory" wage-price freeze, or at least for a temporary freeze pending mandatory controls.

In an interview yesterday, Economic Stabilization Director Alan Valentine declined to state flatly that he was contemplating the application of direct wage and price controls. But it was difficult to draw any other inference from what he did say.

"Certainly the situation in Korea," he declared, "has had drastic and immediate effect on the economic and military situation here. These, in turn, are certain to affect the work of this

Attlee to See President On Tuesday

Prime Minister Due In Capital Monday; Pleven May Come

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Prime Minister Clement Attlee will arrive here Monday with an entourage of 10, and will confer with President Truman the next day.

The British leader, according to dispatches from London, will urge Mr. Truman to avoid formal war with Red China at all costs. He will present the view, it was reported, that such a conflict might lead to World War III.

Attlee is to take off Sunday on his flight to Washington. After his arrival here, he will confer with Sir Oliver Franks, the British Ambassador, and other British officials in preparation for his meeting with President Truman on Tuesday.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters about the Prime Minister's plans late yesterday, after hearing from the British Embassy, but he had no details as to the hour or the scene of Tuesday's meeting.

Attlee was to confer in London today with French Premier Rene

President Cites Grave War Risk; Full Mobilization May Be Required

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

President Truman asked Congress yesterday to vote 18 billion dollars "with the utmost speed" to carry on the fight in Korea and get American military forces ready for possible action elsewhere in the world.

He declared in a special message that the $17,934,000,000 outlay is "not a war budget" but is aimed at increasing our strength and putting us in position to "move speedily" toward complete mobilization if necessary.

In blunt words, the President laid the blame for the present world crisis upon Russia. The recent Chinese attack on United Nations troops in Korea, he said, was launched by "the leaders of Communist imperialism" with full knowledge that it "involved grave risk of world war."

It is aimed, he stated, at furthering "the imperialist designs of the Soviet Union."

Yesterday's budget request calls for $16,844,247,000 for the Department of Defense, $1,050,000,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission, and $84,000,000 for the TVA to provide additional large amounts of electric power required by both programs.

Congressional leaders promised quick action in voting the money. A House appropriations subcommittee held closed-door hearings with top Pentagon chiefs all afternoon and leaders predicted the bill would be ready for floor action in a week.

The supplemental estimate will bring spending for the Army, Navy and Air Force to 41.8 billion dollars this year—over half the World War II peak. Counting military aid and atomic spending the total is about 50 billions.

The big bulk of the Defense Department funds goes to the Army—$9,210,865,000. It will provide a force of 1,264,900 officers and men by next June 30, and vast sums for new tanks, camps, ammunition and war reserves.

This strength is not an increase over what was previously planned, but the total will be reached—as in the Navy and Air Force—earlier than had been planned. Total strength of the armed services will reach 2,771,121 men by early spring, officials said, and then remain there unless a further expansion is ordered with funds asked later.

President Truman made it plain in his message that this will be

Bowles Reported Offered Post Of Envoy to India

Gov. Chester Bowles of Connecticut has been offered the post of ambassador to India, it was reported in Washington last night.

The report followed a call the governor made yesterday at the White House. He told reporters later that President Truman had offered him a State Department appointment, but refused to say what it was. Neither would he say if he would accept.

Bowles, who was defeated for reelection, will cease to be Connecticut's governor on January 3.

F. D. R. to Mackenzie King in Ottawa

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Nov. 5, 1941

Dear Mackenzie:

It was a real joy to have you at Hyde Park for those all too short two days.

Your telegram today was the first reminder I had of the anniversary of last year's election.

Sometimes I indulge in the thoroughly sanctimonious and pharisaical thought, which I hope that you are also occasionally guilty of: that it is a grand and glorious thing for Canada and the United States to have the team of MacKenzie and Roosevelt at the helm in days like these! Probably both nations could get along without us, but I think we may be pardoned for our thoughts, especially in view of the fact that our association so far has brought some proven benefits to both nations.

As ever yours,

We have very much in mind the situation to which Chiang Kai-shek's appeal is addressed. While we feel that it would be a serious error to underestimate the gravity of the threat inherent in that situation, we doubt whether preparations for a Japanese land campaign against Kunming have advanced to a point which would warrant an advance by the Japanese against Yunnan in the immediate future. In the meantime we shall do what we can to increase and expedite lend-lease aid to China and to facilitate the building up of the American volunteer air force, both in personnel and in equipment. We have noted that you would be prepared to send pilots and some planes to China.

$3,279,934 Collected to Date In Community Chest Drive

The nine Community Chest District and county solicitation units pooled their dollar strength yesterday and reached 77 percent of the $4,260,000 overall quota. The amount collected and pledged at the end of 13 weeks of campaigning totaled $3,279,934.

Chairman Hugh K. Duffield appealed to the key workers to finish the job by the next general report meeting on December 8.

"There is still a deficit of 42,000 gifts as compared with last year—people who gave then and have not been reported as giving this year," he reminded.

He urged the workers to go after those 42,000 for "that alone could produce $400,000 for the quota."

The nine units meeting in the Washington Hotel's Hall of Nations gave the following general reports: Government leading with 86.86 percent or $1,461,599.92 collected of a $1,682,700 goal; Fairfax—82.81 percent or $32,709.75 of a $39,500 quota; Special Solicitation—75.48 percent or $235,13.42 of a $311,500 quota; Alexandria—73.36 percent or $59,419.56 of an $81,000 quota; Business-Employes I—71.36 percent of $1,183,724.21 of a $1,658,800 quota; Arlington—67.59 percent or a $59,419.56 quota; Business-Employes II—64.93 or $157,916.77 of a $243,200 quota; Montgomery—62.04 percent or $80,025.24 of a $129,000 quota, and Prince Georges—52.52 percent or $27,308.24 of a $52,000 quota.

For being "one of the most active members of the Red Feather Speaker Service," Chairman Duffield presented the Rev. R. Edward Dowdy, assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts. nw., with an "Oscar." He made 27 speeches to more than 5000 persons.

Frozen Feet, Hands

Seven Victims of Korea Cold Nursed Here at Walter Reed

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Seven new Korean war casualties have arrived at Walter Reed Hospital, victims, not of steel and firepower, but of winter's cold.

They are the first contingent of soldier flown back here for hospitalization for frozen feet and frozen hands.

They sleep at night in tilted beds, with special metal footframes to keep the sheets off raw-tipped toes, toes blackened, blistered, swollen and gangrene-edged. All but one escaped flying steel, but not the sub-zero cold of North Korea.

The tales they tell are not of battle valor, of hand-to-hand combat or of planting flags on hard-won peaks. Theirs are stories of how plain cold crept into their marching or sleeping feet.

They tell, too, of hurried marches that forced them to leave warm sleeping bags behind, of stumbling through icy water, of sleeping on each others' feet—two soldiers cuddled together in a frozen foxhole—commonplace stories of winter and war.

None complained of Army-issue clothing. Most had the special snowpack shoes for winter wear. The soldier with the frozen hands was wearing gloves when he "got his."

"It wasn't anything the Army didn't do, it's what winter did," said one.

Most seriously afflicted of the seven is Sergt. Edward R. Frigon, 33 (and therefore "Old Man"), of Thompsonville, Conn. He lay eight hours, virtually unattended, in the bitter cold with a bullet wound in his thigh, he said.

Both of Frigon's feet were

India's Rau Seeks U. N. Peace Formula

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP).—India's Sir Benegal N. Rau met today with Red China's representative in the first attempt here at conciliation of the Korean crisis. He said later he still hopes for a solution.

"It was my impression that they (the Chinese Communists) too would like a peaceful settlement," Sir Benegal said to newsmen after a conversation of almost an hour with Wu Hsiu-chuan, Chinese Communist representative to the United Nations. "It is that which makes me hopeful."

Rau said he hopes to see Wu again before Monday. It was indicated that they talked only on preliminaries today.

Wu also talked with Secretary-General Trygve Lie—for an hour and a half in the new U. N. building in Manhattan. Lie's spokesman said they discussed general matters and Lie showed Wu the New York City skyline.

U. N. delegates at the same time spoke gravely of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's comment that his lack of authority to hit the Chinese Communists across the Manchurian border from Korea is "an enormous handicap, without precedent in military operations." MacArthur disclosed his views to the magazine United States News and World report. No one here would comment publicly except T. F. Tsiang of Nationalist China, who said he agreed fully with MacArthur.

The General Assembly is expected to start on the Red China-Korean crisis early next week after the West decides what resolution it wants to offer.

The president of the Assembly, Nasrollah Entezam, of Iran, appealed today to world leaders to keep clear heads in the Korean crisis and not be "blinded either by hatred or fear." He told the Assembly it must consider the problem because the Security Council was stymied by a Russian veto.

Entezam made his appeal in the General Assembly without advance notice to even his closest associates, including Lie. He decided his appeal after Russia vetoed a six-power resolution calling on the Chinese Communists to withdraw from Korea.

Later in the Assembly, the delegates referred once more to the Little Assembly for further study of Nationalist China's charges that the Soviet Union helped the Chinese Communists to power and that Russians are trying to dominate the life and culture of 475 million Chinese through the Peiping regime.

John Foster Dulles, American Delegate, said the United States supports that move. He said that, during debate in the Political Committee, some delegates warned that stronger action might irritate the Communist forces of Asia to violent attacks on the U. N. forces in Korea.

"We now know," Dulles said, "that, at the time we were speaking, plans for a massive Chinese Communist offensive against the United Nations in Korea had already been made and the date for its unleashing had already been set. Aggressors should at least know that they will encounter policies of exposure and that they cannot count on a veil being drawn over their ugly acts."

Widow of District Jet Pilot Receives 5 Medals at Bolling

By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

POSTHUMOUS HONORS—Mrs. John Munkres, wife of the late Lieutenant Munkres, a fighter pilot killed over Korea, receives five posthumous decorations at Bolling Air Force Base

Mrs. John Neil Munkers, Washington widow of an Army jet pilot who was killed in Korea, yesterday received five medals awarded posthumously to her husband in ceremonies at Bolling Field.

They were the first awards to be made at the field for service in Korea. Decorations are still are being given there for World War II accomplishments.

Munkers was killed in August while flying his sixty-second mission over Korea. The 26-year-old flier was a graduate of West Point in the class of 1946.

In Korea he was assigned to the 315th Air Division and he flew 60 of his 62 missions in F-80 "Shooting Stars."

But he was flying a conventional motor driven plane, an F-51 "Mustang," when he crashed to his death in the Sea of Japan en route back to base after a mission.

Mrs. Munkers was given a Distinguished Flying Cross for her husband's "courage and devotion to duty." She was also given three air medals and a Purple Heart.

The presentation was made by Col. Henry J. Amen, base commander at Bolling before 3000 officers and men assembled for a formal review.

Mrs. Munkers lives at 2810 Quebec st. nw. She is the daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Van R. Vestal, 4201 Massachusetts ave. nw. Maj. Van Vestal is a retired Marine officer.

Wholesale Prices Continue to Soar Along With Credit

Wholesale prices, soaring from one record high to another, climbed three-tenths of one percent in the week ending last Tuesday, the Labor Department reported yesterday.

The wholesale price index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics reached 171.7 (the 1926 average is considered 100). That was up 9.1 percent since the start of the Korean War, and 1.2 percent in the past four weeks.

Another symptom of continuing inflation was the Federal Reserve Board's report that consumer credit climbed 51 million dollars during October in spit of tough Federal curbs. By month's end the volume of consumer debt stood at an all-time high of $19,366,000,000.

Chinese Nationalists Are Told U. S. Formosa Policy Is Same

TAIPEI, Formosa, Dec. 1 (U.P.). The United States has notified the Chinese Nationalists that the United States will not change its policy of keeping Formosa "neutralized" during the Far Eastern crisis, it was learned today.

The Nationalists have been suggesting unofficially that they be freed of their promise, under the neutrality scheme, not to attack the Chinese Reds. They feel that with the Communists reaching into Korea, this is the time to hit them in South China.

The U. S. decision to maintain its present policy was reported from Washington by Ambassador Wellington Koo to Foreign Minister George Yeh, it was learned.

Reliable quarters said Koo sent the report after conferring with Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Rusk was reported to have said the United States has no present intention of withdrawing the U. S. Seventh Fleet from Formosa Strait or asking for a Nationalist armed force for Korea.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has offered 30,000 troops for use in Korea.

Browder Can't Make Bond, Placed in Jail

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

Earl R. Browder, former boss of the American Communist Party, was sent to jail yesterday when he failed to raise $1500 bond.

Judge Edward M. Curran of District Court ordered the 59-year-old Browder to post the bond pending trial for contempt of Congress or be imprisoned.

But Browder said he had no money. Wearing a battered grey hat, a black overcoat and carrying an overnight bag, he was taken to jail handcuffed to another prisoner.

Two days ago, another judge here had allowed Browder to go free on his promise to return for the arraignment yesterday. Curran denied Browder's plea to "continue the arrangement."

Browder refused to plead to the indictment charging him with failing to answer 16 questions of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee investigating Senator McCarthy's charges of Communism in the government.

Browder, who said he had no money for counsel and refused to have an attorney appointed by the court, said he will defend himself. He said the indictment was "rather puzzling" and "defective."

He was given until December 26 to file his attack on the indictment.

Before he was sent away in the jail van, Browder was allowed to telephone his wife in Yonkers, N. Y. She later told reporters she could not raise the bail.

"I have no money and I don't know where I could get that amount," she said.

Five others pleaded innocent before Judge Curran to contempt of Congress charges, and were released on bond.

Frederick Vanderbilt Field, New York alleged "financial angel" of leftist causes, was arraigned along with Browder for refusing to answer questions of the Senate subcommittee.

Frank Hashmall, of Cincinnati, once identified as a party worker in Ohio, appeared for refusing to answer questions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Arraigned for contempt of the House Lobby Investigating Committee were Dr. Edward A. Rumely, Executive Secretary of the Committee for Constitutional Goverment; Joseph P. Kamp, Executive Vice Chairman of the Constitutional Education League; and William L. Patterson, executive secretary of the Civil Rights Congress.

All were granted postponements for filing of preliminary motions. No date for the trial has been set in any of the cases.

Arraignment of Philip J. Jaffe, editor of the defunct magazine "Amerasia," was continued one week. He is charged with contempt of the Senate Subcommittee investigating Sen. McCarthy's charges of Reds in Government.

Bergdoll's Son Held as Draft Dodger

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
ALFRED BERGDOLL

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP).—Alfred Bergdoll 23-year-old son of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious "No. 1 Slacker" of World War I, was arrested today as a draft dodger like his father.

The pallid-faced, German-born youth gave no specific reason for defiantly refusing to heed a Selective Service order to report for induction.

Bergdoll, employed as a $23-a-week clerk in New York City, has been living apart from his wealthy one-time playboy father, who is now a gentleman farmer in Charles City, Va.

U. S. Commissioner Edward H. McDonald held young Bergdoll in $5000 bail for hearing December 15 on a charge of violating the Selective Service Act of 1948.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Silvio J. Mollo read at the arraignment a letter he said young Bergdoll wrote to his draft board in August. It said:

"Herewith is the order, and also other paraphernalia I received today. I will not (underscored) report for physical examination on Monday; not on any other day, either! I will refuse to be inducted into the armed forces, if an attempt is made to induct me."

Young Bergdoll was born in Nordhausen, Germany, while his father was in self-imposed exile to avoid prison as a draft dodger.

The youth claims American citizenship through his mother's naturalization. Federal authorities are checking the exact status of his nationality. He came to the United States when he was 11 years old.

The elder Bergdoll has been out of the public eye since he was released February 3, 1944, after serving four years and eight months in military prisons on a draft-dodging charge.

Times-Herald Millers Part; Divorce Action to Be Started

MR. AND MRS. MAXWELL PETER MILLER

By The Associated Press

A Washington law firm said last night that Mrs. Maxwell Peter Miller, jr., editor of the Washington Times-Herald, and her husband have separated.

Perry Patterson, of the law firm representing the newspaper, said a divorce action would be filed at a future date. He added that the law firm—Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin and Ellis—was authorized by Mrs. Miller to make such a statement for her.

Miller has tendered his resignation as treasurer and assistant secretary of the Washinton Times-Herald, Inc., Patterson said. Mrs. Miller, 29, is vice president of the company.

She and Miller have guided policies of the newspaper since shortly after it was purchased in 1949 by the Tribune Co., of Chicago, publisher of Col. Robert R. McCormick's Chicago Tribune. Mrs. Miller is Colonel McCormick's niece.

The Times-Herald is published around the clock. The Tribune bought it from seven executives who inherited the paper from Eleanor Medill Patterson. Mrs. Patterson died July 24, 1948.

Mrs. Miller also is president of the Daily Post Co., which publishes the La Salle (Ill.) Daily News Tribune. She and Miller were married in 1941.

Miller could not be reached for comment.

Sam Lano Draws Another Fine In New Arlington Pinball Case

Pinbal machine operator, Sam Lano, and his company, the Arlington Music Corp. of 2030 N. 16th st., each were fined $50 more yesterday in Arlington County Court.

Lano and the firm were found guilty of leasing out illegal "free play" pinball machines. Judge Hugh Reid ordered destruction of two of the three machines seized as evidence against Lano.

But the Judge said he could find no evidence that the third machine had any device enabling it to give free plays.

Fines of $50 were also levied against Lano and the company in the same courtroom Tuesday. In that case, Judge Reid ordered all five machines offered as evidence destroyed.

After both trials, defense attorneys Alfred E. Trueax and William C. Nemeth noted appeals.

The eight pinball machines were confiscated during police raids on county business places on October 18 and November 20.

Justice Staff Reshuffled

By the United Press

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath shook up the top legal staff of the Justice Department yesterday after consultation with President Truman.

Holmes Baldridge, 48, Connersville, Okla., was nominated by Mr. Truman to be an assistant attorney general. McGrath said Baldridge, who has been with the anti-trust division since 1938, will become head of the claims division.

H. Graham Morison, 44, a native of Bristol, Tenn., will move from the claims division to head of the anti-trust division. Morison succeeds Herbert A. Bergson, who resigned September 30 to enter private practice.

Baldridge, who was head of the anti-trust division's general litigation section, has been one of the key figures in the department's drive against monopolies. McGrath said he had an "outstanding" record with the department and as principal attorney with the Federal Communications Commission.

Morison, a law partner of the late Wendell Willkie, has served as an attorney in the department and assistant attorney general in charge of claims.

He now is acting general counsel of the Economic Stabilization Agency.

Duchess' Escort Denies Windsors Have Had a Spat

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (U.P.).—A wealthy playboy who has been squiring the Duchess of Windsor around town while the Duke has been in England said today there was "nothing wrong" in it and the Duke knows all about it.

James P. Donahue, cousin of Barbara Hutton and himself an heir to Woolworth millions, denied a columnist's hint of a rift between the Duke and Duchess.

Judge Appeals To 'Honor' of D. C. Gamblers

A District Court judge yesterday presented to a numbers lottery operator named "Lemon" a chance to prove that there is honor in Washington's gaming fraternity.

All that "Lemon" has to do is pay a $300 fine for an impoverished elderly man who was convicted of taking numbers bets. Otherwise, suggested Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut, "Lemon" must lose face.

George Carroll, 66, of 1633 Marion st. nw., appeared before the judge for sentencing. The defendant said that he had a numbers book of but $3 to $4 daily that he turned in to a man he knew only as "Lemon."

Judge Schweinhaut said that he was puzzled with the case because Carroll had been "in and out of jail most of his life." Another jail term would not help, said the judge.

"Lemon put up bond for Carroll. Maybe Lemon will pay the fine. I'll give him a chance to prove his loyalty to an old employe. I'll fine the defendant $300 and have him committed until the fine is paid," said Judge Schweinhaut.

Defense Attorney Curtis P. Mitchell observed that "as a practical matter" a numbers backer wouldn't be apt to pay a $300 fine for a man with a "three-dollar book."

"If Lemon doesn't pay," said the judge with a wink, "it might get around that he will let one of his men stay in jail. It might reduce his prestige in the fraternity."

Vice Squad Arrests 11 in Liquor Raids

Seventy patrons of the Crystal Cavern Club, 2006 11th st. nw., were detained for questioning just before dawn yesterday while nine members of the Vice Squad arrested nine employes on charges of selling whisky after 2 a. m. without a license.

As police interviewed the patrons beneath the artificial stalactites at the club to find that not one held a membership card, other squad members reported two earlier raids.

Donald B. Davis, 41, of 1700 S st. nw., was arrested at 2021 Portner pl. nw. at 11:55 p. m. Thursday on four counts of keeping and selling whisky without a license.

William G. Francis, 47, of 12 Logan cir. nw., was arrested at 1935½ 12th st. nw at 2:40 a. m. on eight similar counts.

Arraigned in Municipal Court yesterday were the following, described by police as employes of the Crystal Cavern:

Ann Lee Jackson, 37, of 1422 T st. nw.; Elizabeth H. Herod, 24, of 2015 15th st. nw.; Theo L. Murray, 28, of 1608 17th st. nw.; Jean S. Gordon, 36, of 24 T st. nw.; Mabel E. Bradley, 38, of 1022 3d st. ne.; Doris Wallace, 30, of 4607 Central ave. ne.; Edythe P. Connally, 36, of 1830 4th st. nw.; Moselle Madison, 27, of 1901 2d st. nw.; and James H. Coates, 56, of 1722 2d st. nw.

Bond was set at $500 for all 11 persons arrested. Their cases were continued until December 5.

French Government Wins Confidence Vote

PARIS, Dec. 1 (AP).—France's middle-of-the-road coalition government won a vote of confidence tonight, withstanding a severe attack—mostly Communist—which threatened to topple it at a time of world crisis.

By a comfortable margin, 347 to 184, Premier Rene Pleven rode out the parliamentary storm on the eve of his flight to London to confer with Prime Minister Attlee on the world situation.

This was the issue: Did a substantial majority of the Assembly stand behind Defense Minister Jules Moch, and would the majority vote 190 billion francs (about 540 million dollars) in new taxes for rearmament?

The Assembly majority said it would do that.

Communists and extreme right wing followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle—aided by a handful of deputies who previously supported the government—teamed up in the attack on Moch. They accused him of whitewashing an army scandal involving a leak of a secret report on Indo-China, where the French are fighting a Communist-led rebellion.

When the vote came, however, the opposition was almost exclusively Communist.

Tomorrow Pleven and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman go to London to talk with Attlee before Attlee hurries to Washington to confer with President Truman.

Pleven firmly reasserted to the deputies the policy of his government:

1. To act against aggression, of which he declared the Republic of Korea has been a victim.

2. To prevent an extension of the Korean war, regardless of the right of legitimate defense by an army which is being attacked. This reflected French fears that United Nations permission to Gen. MacArthur to bomb Communist Manchuria might be the signal for World War III.

At the height of the debate, Pleven clashed with Jacques Duclos, acting Communist leader in the Assembly. Duclos, attacking President Truman, declared "it is impossible to permit a gang of adventurers to play with the atomic bomb."

Pleven shot back: "It is intolerable to hear the President of the United States called an adventurer in the French parliament." There was lively applause from the non-Communist deputies.

Pro-Communist Pierre Cot, air minister before World War II, withdrew a statement he had made that President Truman spoke of the atom bomb with "inconceivable levity." Cot did so after speaker Edouard Herriot reprimanded him.

Pleven is a member of the small, rightist Democratic and Socialist Resistance Party (UDSR).

'Peace, Freedom'

Veterans Of World Organize

More than 10 million veterans the world over have banded together in a new organization dedicated to supporting the United Nations and its principles in a campaign for "peace with freedom."

Elliott H. Newcomb of Washington, national executive director of Amvets, has been elected secretary-general of the newly formed International Federation of War Veterans' Organizations.

Yesterday Newcomb and representatives of the four American veterans groups affiliated with the federation held a press conference at the Willard Hotel to report on the federation's history and plans.

Met Recently in Paris

He told how representatives of veterans' organizations from Denmark, Italy, Belgium, France, Yugoslavia, Finland, Turkey and the United States met at the UNESCO offices in Paris November 23-27 and in an "inspiring" conference launched the new group. Greece and the Netherlands later affiliated.

"It is one of the largest, if not the largest nongovernmental organizations in the world and with the interest shown by nonparticipating organizations, it should represent 40 million veterans within a year," Newcomb declared.

The federation sponsors invited veterans' group from all countries, including those within the Russian axis, but none of the Iron Curtain countries sent representatives. The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion, the two largest veterans' groups in the United States, declined invitations.

The American participants were Amvets, American Veterans Committee, Disabled American Veterans and Blinded Veterans Association.

The federation took policy stands giving the United Nations strong backing. It supported the U.N. action in Korea; subscribed to the Universal Rights of Man and the San Francisco Charter, and termed the U. N. the "only organization responsible for maintaining peace in the world;" called for establishment of a U. N. military force to repel aggressor nations; asked governments of Free Europe to drop tariff barriers and urged an assault on the concept of inevitability of war.

Urge Board for Disabled

On the veterans' servcie front, it called for establishment of a permanent commission to promote the welfare of disabled veterans through interchange of information on prosthetic devices and other aids.

Russian Protests Rejected by Allies

BERLIN, Dec. 1 (U.P.). — The United States, Britain and France tonight flatly rejected a Russian protest against the city elections to be held in Western Berlin Sunday.

In letters to the acting Soviet commandant here, the Western leaders made it clear they would pay no heed to the Soviet protest or to the Communists own plan for "free" citywide elections.

Unprecedented Odds Are Faced In Korea, MacArthur Declares

By Hugh Baillie

President of the United Press. World Copyright, 1950, By United Press

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 1 (U.P.).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today that his United Nations forces are fighting in Korea against "military odds without precedent in history" and warned that failure to meet the issue there will leave it to be fought, and possibly lost, on the battlefields of Europe."

MacArthur cabled me from Tokyo in response to a message I had sent to him on Tuesday from Paris.

In his reply, MacArthur declared that from the beginning every effort had been made to "further the universal desire that the (Korean) war be localized." He said that throughout the war against the North Koreans "we meticulously respected and held inviolate the international boundary, and I at no time even recommended that authority be granted to retaliate behind it."

He said that "every strategic and tactical movement made by the United Nations command has been in complete accordance with United Nations resolutions and in compliance with the directive under which I operate, every major step having been previously reported and fully approved."

MacArthur said he had received no suggestion from any authoritative source that United Nations troops should stop at the thirty-eighth parallel, at Pyongyang or any other line short of the Manchurian border.

Text of Cable

"Never before has the patience of man been more sorely tried nor high standards of human behavior been more patiently and firmly upheld than during the course, of the Korean campaigns," he cabled.

"From the initiation of the North Korean aggression against the Republic of Korea until the total defeat of the North Korean armies, support from the Communist Chinese from behind the privileged sanctuary of neutral boundaries was open and notorious and all inclusive.

"Long lines of supply from the international boundary to the southern battlefront offered some opportunity for air interdiction and proved a tortuous route with much that entered destroyed before reaching its destination.

"When the lines of battle moved northward following the Inchon landing, however, the area of possible interdiction of such supply movements contracted until there was left but a night's march from the border sanctuary to the area of immediate hostilities.

Cover for Advance

"This provided the means for the Chinese Communist authorities to move troops as well as supplies forward in great force and quantity with the ability to elude air detection and interdiction under cover of darkness and rugged terrain.

"Our general assault launched on November 20 revealed that availing themselves of these distinct military advantages Chinese Communist forces in army corps and divisional organization of an estimated aggregate strength of over 200,000 men then confronted our lines.

"Such revelation, through the timeliness of our attack, disclosed that the tactic of the North Koreans in initially effecting preparations for war behind the concealment of political boundaries and then striking with overwhelming force without warning or notice of belligerency was followed without variation by the Chinese Communists.

"This strategic plan—which may well find repetition in future aggressions — undoubtedly envisaged a massing, under cover of concealment, of such a powerful force as to enable the complete destruction of the United Nations command and conquest of all Korea, unquestionably the Communist objective, in one invincible movement.

Effects on Attack

"The premature exposure of the plan, while not denying the enemy some tactical success through force of numbers although at staggering personnel loss, resulted in a partial strategic failure.

"The existing situation under which the United Nations command is confronted with a new and fresh and well-trained and equipped enemy of vastly superior and ever increasing numbers initiating an entirely new war to cover the North Korean defeat, results largely from the acceptance of military odds without precedent in history—the odds of permitting offensive action without defensive retaliation.

"These odds have been and are being cheerfully accepted in the effort to uphold the high principles and standards which have characterized guiding policy and given nobility to the cause for which we fight, and to further the universal desire that the war be localized.

"With this background of devotion to high principles and invincible determination to achieve the stated objectives of the United Nations, it is disturbing to indeed note the irresponsible comments appearing in responsible sections of the European press.

"There appears to be a general failure, intentional or from misinformation, to comprehend the mission prescribed for this command by resolutions of the United Nations of which their governments were joint architects and directors or fairly to recognize that in success or adversity this command has proceeded unerringly in compliance with controlling policies and directives.

"I can only attribute this to a somewhat selfish though most short-sighted viewpoint.

"To the European the welfare and security of Europe is naturally paramount. He has no fear of attack from the West, solely from the East. It is not unusual therefore that he sees in every dedication of friendly resource toward the stabilization of Asia but a subtraction from that available for the betterment and security of Europe.

"Fallacious Reasoning"

"This is, of course, fallacious reasoning. Any breach of freedom in the East carries with it a sinister threat to freedom in the West.

"The issue is a global one and failure to comprehend this fact carries the germs of freedom's ultimate destruction."

Shipping Control Agency Being Organized

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Preliminary steps toward setting up a national shipping authority comparable to the War Shipping Administration of World War II were announced yesterday by Maritime Administrator E. L. Cochrane.

Admiral Cochrane said a committee of shipping executives would begin work here Monday on organizational plans and a larger Shipping Advisory Committee was in the making. Members of the working committee are:

H. H. Robson, vice president, United Fruit Steamship Co., chairman; A. E. King, Isthmian Steamship Co.; Howell Smith, Smith & Johnson, ship brokers; Ralph Keating, United Fruit Steamship Co., and Fred Pratt, Socony Vacuum Oil Co.

Cochrane said he was going ahead with plans for the shipping authority at the behest of the Secretary of Commerce. The agency itself could be created only by executive order of President Truman. Cochrane said it "would be responsible for operation of merchant shipping in any national effort if it got so deep as full mobilization."

He explained that 3516 ships of all types were registered under the United States flag last June 30, of which about 1200 were operating privately. The rest were laid up in reserve but available on short notice. He said plans for new, fast cargo ships for which the President already has asked an appropriation of $128,000,000 were ready to be turned over to builders as soon as the money is available. A Maritime Administration spokesman later explained that this would provide 15 or 16 ships of 12,500 deadweight tons and 20-knot speed.

Prospective members of the Shipping Advisory Committee, to whom Admiral Cochrane said letters were sent out last night, are:

John M. Franklin, president, United States Lines Co.; J. E. Slater, president, American Export Lines; James A. Farrell, jr., president, Farrell Lines, Inc.; James Sinclair, president Luchenbach Steamship Co.; E. A. Roberts, chairman, Waterman Steamship Corp.; S. B. Turman, executive vice president, Lykes Bros. Steamship Co.; M. G. Gamble, president Esso Shipping Co.; T. E. Buchanan, general manager, marine department, the Texas Co.; Randolph Sevier, president, Matson Navigation Co.; A. R. Lintner, president, American Mail Line, Ltd., and Robson.

Cochrane pointed out that all members of the working committee, except Pratt, were former members of the War Shipping Administration.

Kaiser-Frazer Loan Request Trimmed by RFC to 25 Million

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday turned down a request from the Kaiser-Frazer Co. for a loan of $38 million. It offered instead to consider a $25 million loan to the auto making firm on certain conditions.

Edgar Kaiser, president of the company, promptly entered into negotiations for the smaller amount. He made clear at the joint news conference with RFC officials, however, that he regards some of the conditions as too strict.

The auto concern, which already is about $43 million in debt to RFC on earlier loans, had sought the $38 million to enable it to continue production at about the present level and to store any cars that may go unsold immediately.

The RFC took the position that 25 million dollars would be ample for the company's needs.

Kaiser told newsmen the Federal Reserve Board's credit curbs has cut production of its autos from about 1600 cars daily to about 800 daily now and a further reduction to 600 daily is contemplated in January, even if the 25-million-dollar loan arrangement goes through.

The firm produces the Kaiser and Henry-J cars.

Kaiser predicted a general curtailment of car production, due to efforts to conserve materials for defense and indicated he feels that will make it easier to sell cars that are available.

RFC Chairman W. E. Harber and Director Walter Cosgriff both said the Government lending agency wants to protect its earlier investment in the company. They said they feel the security for the 43 million dollars in outstanding loans will be much better if the auto company continues as a going concern than if it should have to shut down, releasing its key workers

Kaiser said the firm's payroll at its Willow Run, Mich., plant already has been reduced from about 21,000 to 15,000 workers as a result of cutbacks since the credit curbs were adopted.

Christmas Test Ahead

The rise in sales helped to clear away inventories. Many stores had been liberal in their buying after Korea—fearing shortages. At the end of September, department store inventories were 19 percent above a year ago. Merchants are still not out of trouble. The test lies immediately ahead—in the 26 shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas. If goods don't move, shoppers can look ahead to spectacular clearance sales in January. But merchants are taking Armistice Week as a favorable sign.

The prospect of a depression is remote. To be sure, some unemployment may be created, if home-building slumps badly. Automobile companies are forced to cut back output. Other manufacturers are squeezed by

Merit Over Politics

President Truman's belated nomination of William F. Riley to replace Carroll O. Switzer on the Federal bench of southern Iowa is a significant triumph of principle. Mr. Switzer, who was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Governor of Iowa in 1948, was nominated to the judgeship to pay a political debt. When the Senate failed to confirm him in 1949, the President gave him a recess appointment. Last August, however, the Senate voted to withhold confirmation with no apparent dissent from that decision. At last the White House has given the post to the highly qualified candidate originally recommended by Senator Gillette in preference to Mr. Switzer. Some wag suggests that Mr. Switzer was found to have been living the life of Riley, but that should not obscure the importance of this victory of merit over politics in the choosing of judges.

In many instances Senators use the confirmation power to compel the granting of judgeships to their political favorites. That vicious practice is perhaps more common than the payment of political debts in terms of judgeships by the White House and the Department of Justice. In this instance, however, Senator Gillette made a special effort to single out the best qualified candidates. His poll among bar associations in the district brought Mr. Riley and Ed Halbach to the top of the list of favored candidates and showed that Mr. Switzer had virtually no support among the lawyers who would practice before him as judge. The Senator recommended both Messrs. Riley and Halbach, and told the Department of Justice that because of Mr. Switzer's limited experience and poor standing before the bar, he would consider the nomination of Mr. Switzer a personal affront.

The whole Senate is to be congratulated for standing with Mr. Gillette in this matter. In this instance merit has won over politics. But how many Senators are willing to work out a merit system for the selection of men to recommend for judgeships? With both the White House and many Senators swayed by political considerations in staffing the courts, the quality of justice is certain to suffer in some instances. It is time to consider new methods of nominating judges. So important are experience, legal learning and judicial temperament on the bench that some sort of screening test ought to be applied before lawyers become eligible for such appointments. Remembering that remarkable improvements have been made in judicial procedure in recent years through the work of experts on and off the bench, we suggest the naming of a high-caliber commission to survey the subject and propose an improved method of selecting judges.

Farouk vs. Frederika

It's hard to keep an eye on everything nowadays, and we confess that the latest international crisis, which has been developing at the far end of the Mediterranean, has caught us a bit by surprise. As far as we can make out, it has nothing to do with the military situation in the Far East or with the troubles in Germany or the name-calling at Lake Success. It seems only remotely related, if at all, to the general cosmological conflict between totalitarianism and freedom and nobody has even suggested that either Wall Street or the Cominform is in any way involved.

Yet the Egyptian Ambassador to Greece has been recalled, and there is even talk of a complete rupture between the land of Poltinus and the land of Plato. And it is all because of an article in the November 20 issue of Life magazine, which shows you that the press does have some influence after all. The article, by William H. Attwood, purported to be an interview with the beautiful Queen Frederika of Greece, telling among other things of her adventure with the amorous Farouk on a visit to Queen Farida's quarters in his palace nearly a decade ago. On that occasion, according to the tale, Frederika was in some danger of playing Lucrece to Farouk's Tarquin; but being a person of ready wit as well as of incendiary charm, she managed to talk herself out of danger by saying, "that very big man outside in the naval uniform is my husband." The Greek Ambassador at Cairo, M. Triantafyllides, hastily explained that Mr. Attwood must have dreamed up the whole story. But this explanation did not appease the Egyptians, although it is hard to see what else M. Triantafyllides could have done in the circumstances.

If Queen Frederika actually said what she was quoted as saying she was, to put it mildly, showing a degree of indiscretion hardly commendable in royal personages. For one thing, she was putting M. Triantafyllides in a bad spot as between duty and conscience; for another thing, she was making needless new difficulties between monarchists and republicans in Greece. But if Frederika did not say what Mr. Attwood said she said, why then Mr. Attwood and Life magazine were, to say the least, behaving rather irresponsibly.

Still, we must say, there is something refreshingly antique about the whole incident. In an age when international conflicts arise over such dismal matters as economic advantage and ideological fanaticisms, it is rather a relief to find one arising as in the days of Fair Helen over a woman and two men. Besides, it makes the whole business pleasanter to follow and easier to understand.

China Firsters

No matter what the provocation coming from Communist China may be, no matter whether the U. N. Assembly pins the aggressor label on Communist China, we should be launched on the path of madness if we engaged in an offensive war against China. There would be nothing like it since the Sicilian expedition which wrecked ancient Athens. That war was opposed by the responsible elements of the administration in power, but the administration was forced into the adventure by the opposition. There is a striking similarity between then and now.

For years the successors in present-day Washington of these Athenian oppositionists have paralyzed the conductors of policy in the Far East. They have tied the hands of our diplomacy to such an extent that they even exacted a promise from Secretary Acheson that no recognition of the Peking regime would be considered without the prior consent of Congress. They have backed Communist China into what now seems to be the iron embrace of the Stalinists in Moscow. They have built up a dossier of "aggression" by the United States which Wu Hsiu-chuan on Tuesday emptied upon the heads of the Security Council. Much of it makes unpretty reading, testifying as it does to a record of incredible intermeddling in China in behalf of the down-and-out Chiang Kai-shek. Perhaps the China-Firsters among the GOP right-wingers may now pause and reflect as we hang on the brink of disaster. They might think of the whirlwind which looms ahead as the result of the sowing of the big wind by these myopic Sinogogues. In our opinion the American people are not only unprepared for war with China but have no interest in walking up a garden path prepared for them by the Stalinists in Moscow.

President Truman is using necessary words at this stage of affairs in reaffirming our stand in Korea. Whether he was equally well advised in saying that the U. N. forces had "no intention of abandoning their mission in Korea," is another matter. Mr. Truman must have predicated this determinination, of course, upon the assent of the United Nations, for it was announced later that Premier Attlee is coming here for private talks. Strategic decisions of this kind, however, must be governed by the military strategists, and they, we feel sure, must be squirming over the prospect of a shooting war with China. For they can have no plans for any such a contingency, and, because of this, have been constantly pressing the diplomats to settle the trouble by political means. They must keep their powder dry for a showdown with the Soviet Union. It would be cosmically tragic to find ourselves when this trial comes with our effective army bottled up north of the thirty-eighth parallel in a faraway place called Korea. We are fighting in Korea for a great and noble principle, but let us not delude ourselves that we would then be fighting there "for our own national security and survival." Only a Don Quixote would say that.

It is likewise perilous to say that our intervention in China would be "limited." There would be a gravitational pull after war had been declared which would irresistibly engage our resources. These would be diverted (meaning sidetracked), our strategy distorted. The logic of our shorn condition in the West in these circumstances would inevitably involve our coming to temporary terms with Soviet Union for us to quit Europe while we were having it out with Communist China. This is the great aim of Soviet Russia. The Stalinists would leave the Chinese in the lurch again as they did in 1939 when, after sicking the Chinese onto the Japanese, they came to a neutrality agreement with Japan. Already the Germans see the handwriting on the wall in the way that men like Winston Churchill are encouraging the idea of four-power talks over Germany. But, even without this, the China diversion would be bound to arrest an Atlantic build-up. General Bradley has canceled his trip to Paris, where he was expected to put SHAPE over the top, on the very natural grounds that in present circumstances he could not answer the first question that would greet him from France and Germany: When could we expect your divisions in Germany?

It is painful to watch the inexorable march to war with China. China, to be sure, is preventing our U. N. forces from fulfilling their mission, but China does not endanger our "national security" or our "national survival." The real threat comes from Moscow. China is fighting for Asia for Communist Asiatics, Russia is "fighting" for world domination on the cheap. Yet President Truman and Secretary Acheson feel free to talk about China's "aggression," but are silent over the overshadowing aggression of Moscow, and are compelled to listen daily to the criminal mendacity of Jacob Malik in the United Nations. The time is rapidly approaching to bring Soviet Russia before the bar of the United Nations —before we get lost in China.

Tito As An Ally

Events in the Far East ought to have a salutary effect on the Yugoslav aid proposal in Congress. This is no time, as the saying goes, to be looking a gift horse in the mouth. Completely aside from humanitarian considerations in relieving hunger in Yugoslavia, Marshal Tito has some 32 divisions. Persons who have observed them and have noted the almost national hatred for Russia are convinced that the breach with the Kremlin is absolute and that Yugoslavia would fight Soviet aggression.

Consideration of the 38-million-dollar emergency aid program ought to involve no whitewash of Tito. He and the men around him are Communists, and their regime contains much of the ruthlessness of Soviet communism. In fact, there are ideological reasons behind the present emergency: collectivization of farms and overreaching in industrialization have compounded the effects of the drought.

But Tito is a nationalist as well as a Communist, and he has split with Soviet imperialism. He has apparently realized that he must reorient himself toward the West in order to maintain Yugoslav independence, and he has given some positive evidence of this reorientation. Tito has pledged himself to support the U. N. in any case of aggression; Foreign Minister Bebler has lost no opportunity to needle Jacob Malik in the Security Council; Yugoslavia has smoothed its relations with Greece and is facilitating the return of Greek children; Tito has met the conditions prescribed by the World Bank for a loan and has made available all desired information. With respect to American aid, Yugoslavia has agreed to publicize the source and to permit full inspection of distribution.

Already some 30 million dollars in interim aid has been extended to Yugoslavia through a combination of military assistance program, ECA and Export-Import Bank funds. Possibly some additional help can be given in making available surplus stocks of milk, eggs and butter—though American surpluses of other foods are not so large as generally supposed. In any event, interim measures need to be formalized and supplemented by congressional sanction.

Whether aid to Yugoslavia should also take other forms will depend on how far Tito is willing to go and how precisely he is willing to commit himself in his Western alignment. For example, the 32 divisions, though composed of brave fighters, are poorly equipped to meet mechanized onslaught. But help to prevent the collapse of the Yugoslav economy is a necessary first step, and the others depend on Tito himself. Unlike Spain, Yugoslavia is directly threatened by Soviet-initiated aggression in the Balkans; Yugoslavia is at the same time a chink in the Iron Curtain. That is good reason for doing everything possible to keep her independent of Moscow.

Steel Prices And Wages

The 11 percent average wage increase granted employes of the U. S. Steel Corp. is offset by a 5½ percent average increase in prices of steel products. Chairman Symington of the National Security Resources Board, Economic Stabilizer Valentine and Wage Stabilizer Ching participated in the discussions that preceded the agreement and are said to have approved the price increases. So everybody is happy except the consumer who will have to pay more for all sorts of products turned out by steel-using industries, and the taxpayer who will have to finance a defense program made more costly by higher steel prices.

The steelworkers union cannot be blamed for demanding wage increases comparable to those given workers in other industries. The company cannot be blamed for raising its prices to offset an increase of 125 million dollars a year in its wage bill. Indeed, it takes credit for its decision to absorb recent increases in the cost of materials bought from outside sources. President Fairless stated a short time ago that price increases in 10 items alone during the past year would cost U. S. Steel 88 million dollars annually. He added that it was "just plain silly" to suggest that all these wage and material cost increases could be met out of profits. "It is more money, in fact," he declared, "than all the dividends we have paid to all of our stockholders in the last 2½ years put together."

Since Government officials responsible for the inflation control program apparently agree with Mr. Fairless, it seems to us that the only way to avoid an unending round of wage and price increases is to invoke mandatory controls over wages and prices. For the steel industry and other industries whose products are in great demand have little incentive to resist demands for higher wages, when the cost can be shifted to the public in the form of higher prices. And experience has shown that labor will not voluntarily forgo wage increases that employers are in a position to grant.

BOY AND TREE

The ax bit trunk eight inches from the ground and with a small and crackling swish of sound the young pine toppled. As the branches shook the lanky boy could only stand and look, startled that this had really come to be:
that he had felled his very own green tree.

There would be flowers of light along its limbs, colored glass balls, tinsel and popcorn trims and, best, one bright star at the very tip.
Tasting the vision, dream-cup for dreamer's lip,
he tied the branches down and plunged ahead, pulling his Christmas on a painted sled.

Abandoning Formosa

If the price of a free Korea and peace with China is our withdrawal from Formosa—as the Chinese seem to indicate—then let us withdraw from Formosa. We went in there only on a quick tactical decision in the first place. And since we are neither psychologically nor militarily ready for an all-out war, it is at this moment more important to save peace than to save face.

It is also more important to have a free Korea than to save Formosa for Chiang Kai-shek. It would be insane to let a band of China Firsters push America into a cataclysmic war for the sake of that rubbish-heap generalissimo.

No War With China

Never in American history has there been a time when calmness and the highest statesmanship were more needed. Yet if we are to judge by the rash statements of some of our legislators these qualities are quite lacking. For the most obvious fact in today's world is that Russia wants to embroil this country in a war with China. Nothing could be more to her liking.

It follows, therefore, that our most obvious task is to use every bit of patience, wisdom and idealism in trying to avoid such a war. Whatever happens along the Korean front, our diplomats ought to use every possible means to reach the rulers of China and persuade them that we are a friendly nation, anxious to help China, and that war at the Kremlin's command will be a tragedy for both nations.

In the meantime we should make no irrevocable military commitments, such as the use of the A-bomb or trusting the military to make the decision when they think it ought to be used, for here is a time when diplomacy above all is needed. If we fail at this point and leap into a war with China we will have allowed ourselves to fall victim to the greatest trap of all times. Stalin and his friends will then sit back and happily watch us wear ourselves out against a China we have no reason to fight and with whom we should be friends.

Negro Manpower

Various plans have been submitted for decentralizing Federal activities in Washington. Several of these plans have dealt with problems of housing, education and recreation for the large Negro population, but there are many factors involved which have not been given due consideration.

Although thousands of white families have gone into the suburbs of our cities to dwell, there is little or no out-migration of colored people. Yet our cities are being cluttered up with Southern Negro migrants, many of whom would find suburban living far more healthy and suitable for adjustment. But they are not going back willingly into Maryland or Virginia until the restrictive laws that deny them civil rights are taken off the books.

If they must work in Virginia where are they to find homes? As an example of the intolerant attitudes that prevail consider the attempt of a builder to develop a multiple housing unit in Falls Church in the midst of the colored community. When the project was proposed representatives of some of the bordering homes of newcomers opposed the development before the county zoning board. This opposition was defeated.

The builder then sought plans and money from Federal agencies, but somewhere in the higher echelons subtle influences have stymied him. In fact, the only place where Negroes may build houses is usually beyond the areas where service utilities are at present available. Nor may they with feelings of security buy homes adjacent to white residential units.

These are dangerous times. We need manpower in the face of almost inexhaustible manpower of the enemy. Of course, the subject is controversial, but it should not be discussed only within the Board of Trade or white citizens associations. Negro leadership that can be counted on not to be timid or handkerchief-headed should be sought for advice in planning. Two hundred thousand people are too many and their problems too important not to be considered.

Diplomats' Widows

Now that the Congress is again in session there is one bill which, even in these busy times, should receive attention. Time is an important element in this case as the bill concerns the welfare of a small group of women, all of whom are well up in years.

The group referred to are the widows of foreign service men who died before the bill, providing pensions for their widows, was passed. The money involved would be infinitesimal as there are but 40-odd such widows, but several of them are known to be destitute—a couple of them in public institutions—a disgrace to a Government which is supposed to take care of its own.

A bill introduced by Senator Pepper is in committee, but if it is not reported out and onto the floor of the Senate and House, it will die with this Congress and the work will have to be begun again.

"Prodigal's Return"

In your November 19 editorial, "Return of the Prodigal" there appears the following reference to the famous lines from a not very famous old song.

"It was all very well to dissemble
your love,
But why did you kick me downstairs?"

Do you suppose this is on the level, or is it just a misquotation from

"When late I attempted your pity to move,
Why seemed you so deaf to my prayers?
Perhaps it was right to dissemble
your love,
But why did you kick me downstairs?"

The above appears in The Rivals, but I doubt very much that it was ever set to music.

Editor's note: The song is from an obscure eighteenth century English comedy called The Panel, attributed to the actor John Philip Kemble. Unfortunately, the two lines were quoted from memory with a slight inaccuracy in the first. Mr. Freter's version appears to be the correct one.

Senator Bailey

President Roosevelt's letter to the late Senator Josiah Bailey of North Carolina (published in your issue of November 26) with reference to the appointment of Myron M. Taylor as Ambassador to the Vatican, leads to the conclusion that Senator Bailey was hostile to the Roman Catholic Church.

In fairness to the Senator's memory, let it be recorded that such is not the fact. Senator Bailey, although the son of a Baptist minister, was a deep student of the tenets and literature of the Catholic Church, and numbered among his friends members of the Roman hierarchy both in Raleigh and Washington.

"Spur For Germany"

In your November 25 editorial, "Spur for Germany," you felt that the election in western Germany, which have clearly demonstrated an antipathy to rearmament on the part of the German people, do not mean we should stop concentrating on defense. I disagree. I think we've got to heed the warning before all western Europe turns against us.

More than anything in the world—almost more than a Russian dictatorship—the people of Germany, and of France, too, I believe, hate the thought of another war. Rearming western Germany today won't stop the Russians if they want to march to the Atlantic. They're too strong for that. All that German soldiers could do would be to fight a delaying action. In the meantime, their cities, already two thirds destroyed in the last war, would be completely obliterated and their wives, mothers, sisters, sweethearts, would be killed—or worse—by the hundreds of thousands.

Try to picture yourself in the place of a youth in western Germany of an age to fight. He was a babe in arms when Hitler came to power. He was shut off completely from the outside world until war's end, when the Allies liberated him from an oppressive dictatorship which had brought only disillusion and disaster.

Practically every youth I met, employed or unemployed, said, "I will not fight again ever. War is a crime." In the next breath such a youth would add, especially if he were a returned prisoner of war from Russia, "If the Russians invade, I will fight them with the last knife I can lay my hands on. There is no reason to live if the Russians take over."

On top of this paradoxical hate— fear of war there is another factor to be taken into consideration—the magnitude of the task of reconstruction facing western Germany. The Germans have no money left over to spend on arms. They need every cent they can scrape up to help feed the 1,500,000 unemployed — one fourth of them, by the way, are between the ages of 18 and 25—and to help clothe and house the eight million expellees and the refugees from Russian oppression, over 20,000 of whom arrived every month. More than 45 million people crowded together in a territory approximately the size of North and South Dakota can't afford to start building a war machine, even in a presumably good cause.

Moreover, the Germans are still technically our enemies! They are, on the whole, a disillusioned, bewildered, perplexed people, wooed by the Russians whom they despise; and on the whole despised by the West who wants to arm them.

What is the answer? I believe more stress should be laid on achieving a balance of power in Europe through a real, honest to goodness United States of Western Europe. Lay the stress on political and economic, rather than military, unification.

If we want the Germans to fight a delaying action for us, we must make them today a part of the West. We should end the state of war with Germany. We should wipe out the taint of "enemy" and accept them as friends, which the majority of Germans are. I know that almost means an about-face from our earlier attitude, but it's long past the time. And time is short.

Facing Up To Austerity

By Malvina Lindsay

Tax Specter

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A sense of borrowed peace of mind seems to hang over many persons with whom one talks here. Around the corner are coming events in Korea —and elsewhere. Also around the corner are higher taxes.

Concern over taxes is not new among Americans or other people. But a pinching cost of living and warnings about the taxes required for a pay-as-you-go war, or even a continuing armed camp state have made tax returns the big specter ahead. Many admit they are guiltily pushing tax calculations out of mind as something to be thought about in Scarlett O'Hara fashion "tomorrow"—that is "after the holidays."

However it's not the cost of fighting aggression in Korea or of making the H-bomb that disturbs many people so much as the general tax picture. They feel uneasy about the big national debt—the fact that in a time of prosperity it's not been reduced. And looking about for a means of economy, or a scapegoat, they always come back to "Government spending."

Point out to them that about three fourths of the national budget goes to pay for past wars and to build defense against future ones, and that this is not a normal state of national affairs, and they will agree. But just the same there's something wrong, they insist. If we have to spend so much on war, all the more reason to cut civilian expenses.

YOU ASK, "How?" They always give the same answer—curb the bureaucrats. They cite the hordes of Federal employes, nearly two million, and insist many Government offices are overstaffed, many executives drawing big salaries for sitting in conference while their file clerks sit at snack bars. They are seldom if ever specific on this but they can relate what a neighbor saw in Washington on a trip, or tell of someone's experience, even their own, trying to cut through Government red tape to do business.

However exaggerated these ideas may be, they are a strong part of the average man's resistance to taxes. When any party has been in power a long time the tradition of millions of loafers at the public trough flourishes.

Strangely the tax worrier in his zeal to find a way to plug the leaks never mentions the "pork barrel" expenditures on which Senator Paul H. Douglas so futilely sought economy at the last session of Congress. He never seems disturbed over the Government money being put out for improvement projects that could wait for a less critical period.

Nor does he mention the cost to taxpayers of the reckless use of the congressional frank, especially in campaign years, not only by members of Congress themselves, but to permit tons of propaganda to be mailed out by organizations. He may complain—and justly so—of the snowstorms of handouts that come from many Government offices, but he does not question the cost of having the Congressional Record reprint for page upon page something that furthers a legislator's political designs.

AND SELDOM does the citizen who picks the easiest scapegoat, the bureaucrat, stop to think of the danger to civilian life of too drastically curtailing Government services. He doesn't realize how much of his own way of living would be upset if there were the widespread firings he thinks would reduce his tax bill. Likely as not, he raised the biggest howl of all about once-a-day mail delivery.

Yet the feeling now running strong through the country that we "have to pull in our horns somewhere" is basically right, especially in view of what confronts us in Asia. One citizen caught what might be the essence of the situation when he said:

"I don't let myself think of what's ahead in March or even January. I know I can't go on living as I am and pay the taxes it'll take even for rearmament, let alone a war in Asia. Yet the country's in a tight spot and I'm not kicking about paying my money when men are giving their lives.

"But I do worry about our national finances. We've got to get down to brass tacks somewhere on this. And I wonder if Government spending isn't merely the reflection of people's spending. It's the habit we're in. We've most of us been drawing good pay checks, living well, spending a little carelessly. My family's buying a lot of things it could do without. There's a lot of waste and carelessness in every home—look at the newspapers apartment houses throw down the incinerator—so why not in Government?

"As a people we've got to take ourselves in hand and face what we're up against. We've got to stop our waste and our inflationary habits and demand that the Government do the same. But we can't forget that austerity begins at home."

Taft's Victory

Bravo, Toledo Blade, for the editorial reprinted as an advertisement in The Washington Post of November 27. I voted an absentee ballot and left the choice for Ohio Senator blank until my husband convinced me that if every voter did the same, Mr. Ferguson might go into an office he was not qualified for. I voted for Senator Taft in the way the Toledo Blade asserts.

It is important that for the Republican Party to understand this and not try to run Senator Taft for a job that is too world-wide in scope for his talents.

Two Asia Policies

By Marquis Childs

Tragic Results of Vacillation

BENEATH the outward calm of his manner President Truman at his press conference showed the pressure of the crisis that has the whole world in its grip. It came out especially in flashes of resentment at the continuing attacks on the integrity of the Administration.

Childs

In one of these flare-ups the President entered another defense of his Secretary of State, Dean Acheson. One of the most tragic aspects of the crisis is the deep division that exists in the Government between the Congress and the Executive. This is reflected in doubt and suspicion in the country, in large part fomented for political purposes, with Acheson and the State Department as the primary targets.

The "Acheson must go" chorus has now been swollen to large proportions. It has been augmented lately by those who profess to speak more in sorrow than in anger. They say, with a great deal of logic, that if it is true that the Secretary no longer has the confidence of Congress and the country, then he should be replaced. This is true, they added, even though he has been a good Secretary of State and it is highly doubtful whether a more able substitute could be found.

What this overlooks, in my opinion, is that the mere removal of Acheson will not satisfy those chiefly responsible for raising the cry against him. They will not be satisfied with less than a reversal of the Truman-Acheson policy in Asia. Their attack on the individual has in fact been aimed at the policy.

THIS GETS at the heart of the present tragedy. There have been two Asian policies in this country. Neither one has been followed consistently. Under varying political pressures from at home and abroad the Truman Administration has vacillated between the two.

The outlines of the Truman-Acheson policy are fairly clear. The objective has been to try to build a cooperative relationship with Asian peoples seeking to establish independent governments. The goal was to win them to the side of the West by persuasion, assistance, support and the propaganda of free association as opposed to the threats, intimidation and ruthless new colonialism of Russian communism.

The opposing policy might, for lack of a better designation, be called the MacArthur policy. While General MacArthur himself has not always articulated it, his friends and admirers have done this for him. The most persistent advocate of the MacArthur policy is Senator William F. Knowland of California.

At the base of the MacArthur policy is the belief that power and prestige are of the first importance in the Orient. The Oriental will follow the symbols of power and it has been for lack of power and its controlled application that the United States has failed in Asia since 1945.

In this light the failure to give full military assistance to Chiang Kai-shek brought the loss of China, although whether the advocates of this policy would have gone so far as to recommend the use of American troops on the Chinese mainland alongsice Chiang's forces is doubtful. In the last year or year and a half of the Chinese civil war American military advisers in China reported that only American intervention on a large scale and the creation and maintenance of a supply line at least equal to that maintained during and after the D-Day invasion of Normandy would have sufficed.

ALL THE pressures from America's allies in western Europe were behind the Truman-Acheson policy. In this country the most violent political pressures were behind the MacArthur policy.

President Truman has attempted from time to time to reconcile these pressures, to try to strike some kind of compromise. This appears to have been the meaning of his action in sending W. Averell Harriman to Tokyo to talk to MacArthur about Formosa and then in October flying halfway around the world to talk with the general himself for three hours.

Such a reconciliation may have been impossible from the beginning. In recent weeks Great Britain, France and the other Western Allies have been urging caution in Korea and the holding of a United Nations line short of the actual border of Manchuria. MacArthur, the commander in the field, has insisted that he could not stop at such a line. The President sided with MacArthur on all but the ultimate point of attacking Chinese Communist concentrations inside Communist China.

The result of veering between one course and another course has been maximum confusion and uncertainty. Whether the present disaster might have been averted by caution we shall never know.

The removal of Acheson would perhaps temporarily end the clamor. But anyone else who tried to carry out the Truman-Acheson foreign policy would almost certainly be faced with the same attack. To switch the policy would be something else again. At the present moment it looks as though a switch could only be to all-out war against communism everywhere.

Second Fights Its Way Out

Sergt. John H. Cook, of San Francisco. "He'd holler, 'Dismount!' and we'd hit the ditch and fire away at the Reds. Then he'd yell, 'Mount up!' and off we'd go."

When things got rough, Sergeant Cook handled the 50-caliber machinegun mounted on the jeep. He said: "The old man would bellow, 'you're a simple-minded SOB, but give them hell!' He was firing left-handed and right-handed both, and sometimes when we were barreling along he'd tell me to pull my neck in and he'd fire right across my face.

"Tell the chaplain (Col. Edward J. Demars of Marine City, Mich.) that I wore out two pairs of rosary beads. It made a believer out of me."

One bullet smashed through the windshield of Keiser's jeep and hit the steering gear. "Those dirty SOB's, those dirty b———ds," growled General Keiser, inserting a fresh clip of ammunition in his rifle.

Two members of his staff riding in a following jeep were wounded. There were so many wounded men that the general ordered his headquarters van opened to them. The assistant division commander, Brig. Gen. Joseph Sladen Bradley, and the chief of staff, Col. Gerald Epley of Beatrice, Nebr., helped to load wounded into vans.

The division began to pull out of its command post soon after 1 p. m. Thursday. The route of retreat for most of the division—the Thirty-eighth Regiment, Ninth Regiment and division headquarters—was along a secondary road southward to Sunchon.

The route curved eastward precariously near to the wide open right flank of the Eighth Army. The Turkish Brigade was supposed to provide security along the high ground east of the road, but the Turks had been gravely weakened in the fighting on Thursday and were in no condition to man the long front. Many of their security positions were overrun, and finally the remnant went to their trucks and fled.

The enemy was firmly disposed along the east side of the road for several miles when the Second Division convoy approached. The lone line of vehicles came under fire before the convoy had moved two miles.

Meanwhile, the Twenty-Third Regiment, under Col. Paul L. Freeman, of Roanoke, Va., was fighting a classic delaying action south of Kunu-ri. From good positions on a ridge a mile from the town, it held off the Chinese advance until 4 p. m., when Colonel Freeman was told to get out as best he could.

At that time, he was under heavy pressure, with Chinese storming across a bridge 500 yards to his front. But the regimental vehicles were already lined up with motors running and the breakaway was conducted so skillfully that few vehicles were lost.

Colonel Freeman wisely decided to risk a retreat by way of Anju, and discovered that road was still open.

Korea's Really Tough on Foot Soldiers

frozen, dangerously deep. They still pain all the time "like each toe's shooting out hot needles," he said. Only time will tell whether his feet can be saved, his doctor reported.

Frigon, like most of those hospitalized with him in Ward 28, was in action along the Ungi river, some 30 air miles south of the Manchurian border. The days were November 13 and 14, when winter set in with a vengeance, and sub-freezing weather became sub-zero weather almost overnight.

No Fires At Night

Pfc. George T. Griffiths, 17, of Cleveland, Ohio, was doing machine gun guard duty on those same days and nights. Four hours on and eight hours off, and no fires at night lest the glow give away his position. He awoke wtih numbed feet, sought relief in a heated station, and "then the pain started."

Another, Pfc. James H. Cash, 20, of Cambridge City, Ind., traced his frozen feet to a forward march. Five hours of slogging in woolen socks and snowpack shoes saturated his feet with sweat, he said. He didn't have time to change his footgear and the cold attacked him during three hours of sleep, between 3 and 6 a. m.

Corpl. Paul E. Russell, 18, of Memphis, Tenn., blamed an icy footbath for his troubles. He was crossing the frozen Ungi River with a radio on his back when the ice gave way, soaking his feet. They froze, he said, on the continuous uphill march on the northern bank.

In Frigid Foxhole

It was a Philadelphia soldier, Pvt. Carlos Jones, 17, who told how he and his buddy tried to beat the cold by sleeping on each other's feet. Their sleeping bags left behind when they started their advance three days before they lay together all night in a foxhole, taking turns in covering each other's feet.

When morning came, said Jones, both his feet were frostbitten, and so were his comrades. His buddy's feet, however, "came around," enough so he returned to duty. Jones was flown to the United States.

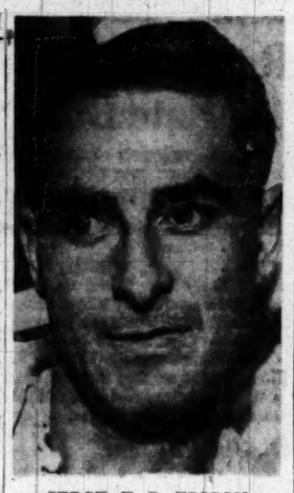
Pfc. Anthony Occhibove, 19, of Hudson, N. Y., suffered frozen feet from cold that crept through a sleeping bag and his snowpack shoes.

In the next bed, the case of frozen feet was a twicetold tale, the patient having suffered the same pains in a prisoner-of-war camp in Germany in World War II.

"They don't look as bad now as they did in Germany," said Master Sergt. William O. Frederick, 35, of Columbus, Ga. "I guess maybe it's because I watched them more closely."

Having once suffered freezing, he explained, he knew the signs, mostly a reddening of his feet. When his legs got cold he knew the feet were even colder, since his earlier episede "had left them a little numb."

The sole case of frozen hands was that of Pfc. John Paul Potts, 18, of Clarksburg, W. Va. His hands froze, he said, while he carried a metal ammunition box for two hours in a march along a windswept ridge. Gripping the handles, he explained, cut off circulation to his fingers.



SERGT. E. R. FRIGON, with frozen feet and thigh wound, could not be moved to picture area with others and received special attention

The President's Calling List

President Truman yesterday had the following White House appointments:

10 a. m.—Cabinet.

11 a. m.—President asks congressional leaders for funds for expanded defense program.

12 noon—Myron Taylor, former personal representative of President to the Pope.

12:15 p. m.—Clyde Ellis, executive manager, National Electric Cooperative Association.

12:30 p. m.—Howard Tewksbury, Ambassador to Paraguay.

12:45 p. m.—Irving Florman, Ambassador to Bolivia.

1 p. m.—Lunch.

3:15 p. m.—Gov. Chester Bowles of Connecticut.

3:30 p. m.—Budget Director Lawton.

4 p. m.—Senator Anderson (D., N. Mex.).

ing up over civilian versus military control of the program.

In the House the bill is before its Armed Services Committee. But yesterday two identical bills were introduced in the Senate—one by Senators Kefauver (D., Tenn.) and Cain R., Wash.) of the Armed Services Committee, the other by Chairman McMahon (D., Conn.) of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee.

Neither bill was referred to a committee for consideration. Vice President Barkley was expected to rule next week on which group will handle the measure.

As drafted by the Administration, the measure would place the civil defense program under a civilian agency. Its administrator, working directly under the President, would coordinate the civil defense programs of all Federal agencies including the Defense Department. The administrator also would control allotment of Federal funds to the States.

Truman's order directed Caldwell to:

1. Prepare "comprehensive Federal plans and programs for civil defense of the United States and to coordinate them with the civil defense activities of the States."

2. Conduct research to develop civil defense measures and equipment.

Disseminate civil defense information and exchange it with foreign countries.

4. Arrange training programs for instruction of State and local civil defense leaders and specialists.

5. Encourage States to negotiate agreements with other States and neighboring countries for mutual aid in event of disasters.

6. Provide for civil defense communications.

All provisions of the order apply equaly to the District.

Caldwell was Governor of Florida from 1945 to 1949.

Truman Asks Defense Funds

done. Stating that the armed forces have been built up from just under 1,500,000 men last June to 2,250,000 now, and are aimed at nearly 2,800,000 by June 30, he added:

"Now we face the necessity of having to raise our sights, both in terms of manpower and in terms of production."

The Air Force will get $4,603,011,000 of the new budget. This, the Bureau of the Budget disclosed, will provide 68 groups in being by next June 30, and funds to build toward a goal of 84 groups by June, 1952. This is a big step-up in the program previously planned.

Another $2,114,700,000 is provided for Air Force plane procurement, including expansion of existing aircraft factories to speed production and some 1,200 additional plane orders.

The Navy was given another $156,360,000 for new plane procurement, but all will be spent for expansion of plants and speeding production.

The Navy gets $2,979,371,000—all that was asked, officials said. Included are funds for modernization of an aircraft carrier and money to speed up shipbuilding and construction of additional smaller ships. The amount provides for finishing three American President liners as troop ships.

Money for the AEC, the President said, "will provide larger capacity for the production of fissionable materials, and for the fabrication of such materials into atomic weapons."

The entire $1,050,000,000 for atomic energy will not be used for a single project, it was learned from the Atomic Energy Commission, but will be spread in many ways to enlarge capacity of all sorts.

Nevertheless, it is known that the great bulk of it will find its way to a new plant, to be built at a site not yet announced, but located in Kentucky. This plant, for the separation of U-235, the explosive variant of uranium, from U-238, the relative stable and more common variety, will be a balance to a new plant, announced earlier in the week, for the production of plutanium or tritium.

Plutonium, like U-235, is used in the A-bomb; tritium, a variant of hydrogen, will be used in the H-bomb, if the construction of that weapon proves feasible. The new plutonium-tritium plant will be located in South Carolina.

Nine billion dollars of the money asked for the Pentagon will go for procurement of planes, ships and weapons and expansion of the means to roduce them. Of this total, 2.3 billions is earmarked for plane procurement, 700 millions for ship construction, 1.3 billions for tanks and other combat vehicles, and 2.1 for ammunition.

The estimates provide 410 millions for research and development—largely to bring newly developed weapons to the stage where they can be put into production. A total of $1,427,000,000 is carried for public works, including a heavy expansion of training facilities in the United States and key overseas bases.

Manpower goals to be reached well before next summer, the Budget Bureau said, are: Army, 1,264,900; Air Force, 651,095; Navy, 688,971; and Marines, 166,155. The Leathernecks will continue at two war-strength divisions. The Army will have 17 divisions, it is reliably reported.

continued. But eight Red divisions—possibly between 65,000 and 100,000 men—were seen moving southward toward Songchon. Another Red division was reported in the Samso area, 27 miles northwest of Songchon.

Near Kaechon, seven miles north of Samso, air observers spotted 1000 Chinese changing from uniforms into civilian clothing—a ruse aimed at facilitating infiltration.

Any flanking thrust at Songchon would be a repetition of the Chinese tactic which succeeded along the Chongchon River line farther north.

The Reds smashed three South Korean divisions defending the east flank and forced the Eighth Army to pull back hastily across the Chongchon to avoid a trap.

Planes Bomb Pyongyang

One of those shattered divisions, the South Korean Sixth, had elements back on the new defense line. Elements of the other two divisions, the Seventh and Eighth, were moved into defense positions farther southeast.

Eighth Army headquarters said there was little contact last night along the arching new defense line which runs from the west coast through Sunchon, 30 miles north of Pyongyang, then curves southeastward to Songchon.

For the third time in a week, enemy planes raided Pyongyang Friday night. Three planes dropped six bombs on an airport and two bombs on marshalling yards. No damage was reported.

There was no present intention to use the atom bomb against overwhelming Chinese Communist forces. General MacArthur's headquarters indicated.

MacArthur himself was quoted as regarding the situation as critical, but not hopeless.

Chinese Reds—numbering probably more than 300,000 on the two war fronts—filtered at one point to within 30 miles east of Pyongyang, the former Korean Communist capital. Their spearheads had split the Eighth Army in the west from road contact with the United States Tenth Corps in the east.

A biting wind swept North Korea as a cold snap approached.

Taking advantage of clear weather while it lasted, Allied fighters and bombers hurled all available planes at the advancing Chinese. They slammed hardest at 10,000 Red troops crossing the Chongchon west and south of Kunu "with many vehicles."

The U. S. Second Division had held the Kunu keystone position against overwhelming odds long enough to permit the successful withdrawal across the Chongchon River by U. S. Twenty-Fourth and Twenty-fifth Divisions, the Republic of Korea First Division and British and Turkish brigades.

Two bridges spanning the Chongchon north of abandoned Anju were blown up by retreating Americans. It checked momentarily the onrushing Reds—all identified as Chinese.

U. S. First Cavalry Division troops were in a firefight near Songchon, 28 miles northeast of Pyongyang, where the Chinese tried to run the east end of the line. However, an Eighth Army spokesman said there had been no penetration of the new U. N. defense line. It runs roughly 28 to 30 miles north of Pyongyang. The northwest front, he said, was relatively quiet for the time being.

In the northeast, the U. S. First Marine Division and two regiments of the U. S. Seventh Infantry Division fought their way southward toward Hagaru on the south tip of Changjin Reservoir.

Navy and Marine Corsair pilots who supported the ground forces with heavy air strikes against enemy road blocks, said the Americans were "fighting every inch of the way."

Associated Press Correspondent Tam Stone quoted pilots as saying the Chinese troops did not run for cover under air attack, but "kept goiong in pretty close formation."

The Marine Fifth and Seventh Regiments were under fire on the west side of Changjin Reservoir, while the Seventh Division's Thirty-first and Thirty-second Regiments retreated down a main road on the east side of the big lake. The reservoir was three fourths frozen.

Both the Army and Marine forces were expected to reach Marine-held Hagaru shortly.

The Marine Fifth Regiment had tanks in front and rear of its retreating column, as it skirted the lake.

The Chinese kept up heavy fire pressure from the front, rear and flank running along ridges to keep pace with the retreat.

Chinese road blocks cut off both the Marine and Army supply routes from Hamhung, 50 miles southeast of Hagaru.

General MacArthur's war summary late Friday afternoon disclosed that members of the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team had been switched to the northeast front. They were engaged with a strong Chinese Red force at Sachang.

The publication estimated that December retail sales will total $13,874,000,000, up 11 percent over December last year. For the entire year retail business will show a gain of nearly 10 percent over 1949. COMPETITION: The investment Bankers Association closed its 39th annual convention yesterday in Florida with the gloomy observation that its members were being pushed into the background by other financing institutions, particularly insurance companies. Noting that in recent years between 60 and 70 percent of the financing of industrial expansion has been done through private agencies, the association's committee on industrial securities predicted the trend would increase. The association elected Laurence M. Marks of New York as president for the coming year.

The FDIC extended financial aid to only one insured bank during the first six months, Harl said in a report on the first half's operations. All of the accounts in this bank whose deposits aggregated more than a million dollars were transferred to another insured bank. As of June 30, the FDIC insured deposits of 13,641 banks with total assets of 170 billion dollars.

One On the Aisle

A Roman Candle In a Tired Face

By Richard L. Coe

A ROMAN CANDLE in the tired face of vaudeville—to wrestle a phrase from Moss Hart—seems to me on view at the Capitol. This is a clipped, showy act labelled "Martha Stewart and the Blackburn Twins."

The picture is a tried and untrue item yclept "Two Weeks with Love," a Technicolored musical in which Jane Powell, as a 1913 teen-ager, yearns for a corset and Ricardo Montalban, winding up, natch, with both.

But the Blackburn Twins and their lady are something different. They're the last act on the bill and they've got some fresh material in song and dance which they present with that whammy for which there's no other word than showmanship.

Not that the act's a new one. I've been reading about it in Variety for some time, they've even played a coupla night spots hereabouts, but since checking a coat in a night club completely defeats me, I've had to wait till their Capitol bow before furthering my education.

The Blackburns are two tall, dark, good-looking young fellows who play up to the girl in their act; Vivien Blaine and Janet Blair had Miss Stewart's spot before taking over, respectively, the leads in "Guys and Dolls" and the touring "South Pacific." Tiny, gingery Martha we used to see in screen musicals: "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," "Are You With It?"

Their act is good because it's been tailored for them; not just re-written "arrangements" or "versions" of worn words and chunes, but special patter songs. This week, for instance, they're doing a nifty called "Movies Are Better Than Ever," by Miss Stewart's song-writing husband, George O'Hanlon. Their chanted comments are topical and witty. Their dancing is sharp, well-defined and inventive. Their mastery of the cemented mike should be a lesson to all acts; while they're never far from it, they give you the impression of motion.

The pattern of the act is, I suppose, as old as time, but as always happens when the participants channel their gifts through original material and hardwork, the result is fresh as ocean air. Acts like this can make you forget a quire of weary vaudeville carbons.

Milt Slosser and Kay De Witt get things started with Milt's own answer to "The Thing" question. Martes and Lucia do their acrobatics to rhumba rhythms. The Chords make amusing sounds of orchestral theme songs. Gary Morton, the week's comic, is a notch or two above the usual in style, which serves as a good dressing over a familiar approach.

A Tinted Pleasantry

"Two Weeks with Love" is pleasant, but I can't say that it's much more than routine. Father Louis Calhern and Mother Ann Harding (who seem to have forgotten none of "Life with Father") take their 1913 family to a Catskill resort, where Daughter Jane Powell's most logical beef is that she dresses like a child and has no corset. She is old enough, however, to stir the libido of Montalban, who plays a Mexican on Catskill holiday.

Since the family's staying in a resort, a show is a must, which gives rise to musical moments for "Aba Daba Honeymoon," "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," "Oceana Roll" and "Row, Row, Row" and popular tunes of the period.

The scripters do manage a dream invention a bit off the track, which gives Judy a chance at those two melodies that have so many notes in common, "My Hero" and "Beautiful Lady."

Debbie Reynolds, who played Helen Kane so successfully in the Kalmar-Ruby musical, has some nice moments, and that lanky Carleton Carpenter comes into his own with some boyish songs, dances, etc.

Let's call "Two Weeks With Love" a tinted pleasantry, nothing more, and, Metro forfend, nothing less.

MIGHTY NICE thing happened in the Metropolitan lobby the other night, where there's a placard advertising the special children's Christmas show Saturday morning, the 16th . . . Lionel train sets are to be given away to six lucky kids, High's Ice Cream is donating refreshments and Gene Klavan's to be on hand with some ocarinas to give away . . . Man saw the ad, noted that admission fee will be 35 cents, hunted up Manager John Marcon . . . "Here," said the anonymous stranger, pulling out his wallet, "is $100. Please use it to admit 300 children from the town's orphanages" . . . Which will be done; Marcon thinks it's the nicest thing that's happened anywhere in a long time.

CONTESTS and ways of getting goodies for free are baits at both the Palace and Warner . . . On F st., Lynn Jeweler's and Harvey Jewelers, are diamond conscious for "King Solomon's Mines;" note their entry blanks in the lobby and stores . . . The Warner's not only continuing "The West Point Story," but also its estimable Safe Driving contest; for this one you don't need to have entered from the start to win that new Dodge sedan from Leo Rocca . . . Warners are sponsoring this with the D. C. Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board to help make both drivers and pedestrians more aware of traffic laws . . . Info blanks in the lobby.

YOUNG BLOOD: The D. C. Recreation Dept. Children's Theater of Washington production of "A Christmas Carol" will be repeated this afternoon at Roosevelt Auditorium at 2:30 . . . The Fairlington Players act their children's special, "Racketty Packetty House" this afternoon at 2 and tonight at 7:30 in the Barrett School at Parkfairfax. . . . The class of '51 of Washington-Lee High is playing its second performance of "Excursion" tonight at the school.

GOINGS-OFF: 'The Taming of the Shrew" calls it a run after three weeks at Arena Stage.

HE'S IT: Ben Johnson can afford to look amused. He's the Travis Tyree who's badly wanted, but escapes hanging in John Ford's "Rio Grande," the master's newest Western drama now on the Metropolitan screen, with John Wayne as the top star

Sherrill Asks Spread Of Church Influence

By Thomas Schlesinger
Post Reporter

CLEVELAND, Dec. 1.—The first president of the new National Council of Churches of Christ—Protestantism's dominant voice—called tonight for an extension of church influence "to every strata of society."

The Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, in his presidential address prepared for delivery at the closing session of the NCCC constituting convention here, declared, "there can be no artificial divison between the sacred and the secular.

"Churches, if they are expressions of the purpose and will of God, cannot be limited—as some would declare—to special fields of worship," the churchman asserted.

The presiding bishop of the Episcopalian Church warned "the churches cannot be simply a reflection of the prejudices, opinions and standards of contemporary society."

Stassen Hits A-War

The 60-year-old bishop was named without opposition to lead the interdenominational, cooperative group representing 90 percent of Protestant and Eastern Orthodox church members in this country.

During World War II, Bishop Sherrill was chairman of the General Commission of Army and Navy chaplains in Washington. He was also a member of the President's Committee on Civil Rights in 1947.

The four-day convention closed tonight with a service of dedication. Initial meetings of the general departments were held during the afternoon, while officers were named at the plenary session in the morning.

A message to the people of the Nation was adopted by the assembly which, in part, called for a shaping of our foreign policies "without hysteria, without hatred, without pride, without undue impatience, without making national interest our chief end. . . . In the light of the aims of the United Nations."

Earlier in the day, Harold E. Stassen underscored an expression echoed here many times by leading church figures this week. He declared—midst heavy applause—"the United States should not carry an atomic war to the people of China."

The former Minnesota governor, however, detailed two circumstances in which "atomfc bombs would be morally justified:

"If they can be effectively used to assist American soldiers to escape the trap in North Korea" and "if at any future time the United States and the United Nations conclude that the Russian Communist Politburo has directly or indirectly started World War III."

Another development today indicated that those who pinned "leftist" labels on the former Federal Council of Churches will have a much harder time doing it on its successor, if a motion of J. Howard Pew, of Philadelphia, prevails.

The former president of Sun Oil Co. proposed that an organization of 80 prominent laymen which he assembled to sponsor the first NCCC assembly here, be continued "to make recommendations to departments as to policy and procedures which make most effective use of lay people in the council."

In the elections, others named, beside Bishop Sherrill, include:

Vice presidents-at-large: Mrs. Douglas Horton, of New York City, former president of Wellesley College; Mrs. Abbie Clement Jackson, of Louisville, Ky., executive secretary of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church; Dr. M. E. Sadler, of Ft. Worth, president of Texas Christian University; and Harold Stassen.

On December 10, the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, minister of Christ Methodist Church in New York City will speak at the 4 p. m. service. Jewish Community To Celebrate Holiday

Sunday Ceremony

Beth Israel Will Install New Rabbi

Rabbi Aharon Shapiro, newly appointed spiritual leader of the Beth Israel Congregation, will be installed in ceremonies at the synagogue, 4008 Minnesota ave. ne., at 8:15 p. m. Sunday.

Rabbi Shapiro

Conducting the installation service, will be Rabbi Meir Belsky, director of the executive board of the alumni association of Masivta Rabbi Chaim Berlin, Brooklyn, N. Y. Guest speaker will be Rabbi Josha Klavan, dean of the Washington rabbinate.

Rabbi Shapiro, a former principal at the Canarsie Jewish Center and lecturer in Jewish history at the Hunts Point Jewish Center, Bronx, N. Y., succeeded Rabbi Gedaliah Rosenthal at Beth Israel on September 8.

Rabbi Simon Burnstein of the Southeast Hebrew Congregation and Rabbi Solomon H. Metz of Adas Israel will officiate at the benediction.

Maurice B. Baroof, president of the congregation, will give the welcoming address and Benjamin Nacht, vice president, will introduce the speakers.

Chanukah, the Jewish "festival of lights," will begin Sunday at sundown when the first of eight candles symbolizing flames of loyalty to God and man will be lit in homes and synagogues.

One of the gayest Jewish holidays—principally a home celebration—Chanukah recalls the rededication of the Temple of Jerusalem in 167 B. C. after a victorious three-year struggle against Syrian oppression.

Families will gather to light one taper in the Menorah, or candelabra, on Sunday evening. An additional candle will be lit each successive night—for eight days—until eight flames glow, a symbol that light and freedom are on the march despite oppression.

Recalls Miraculous Oil

According to Jewish tradition, when the temple was restored a small bottle of holy oil, which generally was sufficient for only one day, burned for a full eight days.

Prior to the rededication of the temple, King Antiochus Epiphanes had demanded the Jews give up their worship of God. Under the leadership of Matthias Maccabe and his son, Juda Maccabee, a movement to overthrow the king was successfully carried out, and the temple rededicated.

Special services and festivities will mark this first great victory for the freedom of religion. During the week the Hallel, or psalms of Thanksgiving, will be recited at synagogue services in the morning.

Ceremony at Country Club.

The Louis D. Brandeis Zionist District will kindle the first light at their annual Chanukah party on Sunday evening at Indian Spring Country Club, at 8 o'clock.

Children at the Adas Israel Religious School will celebrate on Sunday, December 10, at 10 a. m. in the Jewish Community Center, 16th and Q sts. nw. The adults of the congregation plan to join in festivities that evening at 8 p. m. in the Adas Israel Synagogue, 600 I st. nw.

On the eighth day of the festival, the members of the Northeast Hebrew Congregation and their families will hold their fourth annual Chanukah dinner and dancing party in the Royal Palms room of the Hotel Cairo, 1615 Q st. nw., at 7:30 p. m.

Special Menorah lighting ceremonies will mark the formal dedication of the new center building of the Montgomery County Jewish Community, 201 East-West hwy., on Sunday, December 10 at 8 p. m.

Charity Group Honors Father Caulfield

The Society of St. Vincent de Paul of Washington honored its outgoing spiritual director, the Rev. James A. Caulfield, with a testimonial dinner Thursday night in St. Augustine's Church auditorium, 15th and R sts. nw.

Father Caulfield was recently assigned as pastor of the newly created St. Jane de Chantal parish in Alta Vista, Md. He has been with the Society, a world-wide Catholic group devoted to the temporal and spiritual care of the underprivileged, for the past 7 years.

Harry J. Kirk, president of the Particular Council of the Society of Washington, presented Father Caulfield with a gold watch, and William A. Prater, president of the society's chapter at St. Augustine's Church, delivered a eulogy on behalf of the Society.

The Rev. Leo J. Coady, succeeds Father Caulfield as spiritual director of the Society, and the Rev. George Gingras takes over Father Caulfield's duties as director of the St. Vincent de Paul camps.

Mormons Set Quarterly Conference

Members of the Mormon church in an area extending from Baltimore to Richmond will meet for their quarterly conference at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 16th st. and Columbia rd. nw., on Sunday. Sessions will be held from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. in the chapel.

Joseph F. Merrill of Salt Lake City, a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles of the Latter Day Saints Church, will preside.

A youth rally is planned for 6:30 p. m., at which Oscar A. Kirkham, of Salt Lake City, a member of the general authorities of the church and a scouting expert, will be guest speaker.

Youth Evangelist To Bring Radio-TV Staff to Rally

Youth Evangelist Jack Wyrtzen will bring his radio and television staff with him to his Word of Life Rally in Constitution Hall next Saturday, December 9, at 7 p. m.

The founder of the "Youth for Christ" organization will appear under the sponsorship of the Christian Businessmen's Committee for Washington.

A 35-year-old former insurance agent, who 10 years ago started his own religious revival among the Nation's youth, was born in Brooklyn, N. Y. Since 1941, he has directed the World of Life Hour broadcast on a coast-to-coast network. He also sparks the "Word of Life Song Time," an informal television show channeled from New York City.

Preparing for Chanukah . . .

JOYOUS FESTIVAL—Children of the Hebrew Academy of Washington kindle the menorah (candelabra) in preparation for celebration of Chanukah, which will begin Sunday evening, by Washington Jewry. Chanukah continues for eight days and is known as the Feast of Dedication, or Feast of Lights. It commemorates purification and rededication of the Temple of Jerusalem after pagan desecration 2100 years ago. Candles are kindled in homes each evening. Here Solomon Snyder, 11, 1202 Hamilton st. nw., kindles the lights, and Ellen Kober, 8, of 1624 Oak st. nw., chants the prayers

Coordinated Budget Urged For Israeli Aid

Creation of a "central Israeli budget" to apportion funds on the basis of "priority and urgency" was urged yesterday at a meeting of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds in the Hotel Shoreham.

Harold Glasser, director of the council's Institute on Overseas Studies, told the national convention that Israel's "severe economic crisis" must be met by increasing the country's productivity and financial resources.

"There has been insufficient attention on the part of organizations, there has been insufficient study of the ways and means in which programs can be coordinated so that the sum total of the American effort to assist Israel will be made effective," Glasser said.

The proposal for a central Israeli budget, has been put before the Jewish Agency for Palestine, Freeman said.

Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing will address the convention at 8:15 p. m. today.

The three-day, 19th annual assembly will hold its annual business meeting Sunday morning, and adjourn after a "Mobilization for Jewish Needs at Home and Abroad" luncheon. Speakers will include Moshe Sharett, Israeli foreign minister; Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, European director of the Joint Distribution Committee, and Stanley C. Myers, council president

Adventists To Launch TV Program

The Seventh-Day Adventist denomination will inaugurate a religious television series over an ABC network from New York beginning tomorrow.

Cities to be covered will be Washington, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago and Minneapolis, according to William B. Ochs, chairman of the SDA television commission at the denomination's world headquarters in Takoma Park, D. C. The cities of Birmingham, Omaha and Ft. Worth will be added on the December 10 program.

The weekly program, set for 12:15 p.m., is entitled "Faith for Today" and will be directed by Elder William A. Fagal in New York.

The move to enter the television field, Ochs said, was inspired by widespread interest in religion and a growing desire for spiritual hope and guidance.

Church leaders have appropriated more than $370,000 toward the "Faith for Today" program, Ochs said.

Ochs said he believed the Seventh Day Adventists are the first organized religious body to go into television on a large scale. The program, he said, will aim at giving practical spiritual counsel and will deal with problems of life and Christianity on pastor-to-family basis.

Attlee Is Due Here Monday

Pleven and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, and might bring the views of the French government to Washington.

There was speculation abroad that Pleven might accompany Attlee here. However, Pleven made no mention of such plans, and nothing was said at the White House about a tripartite conference.

The manner in which the Truman-Attlee conference was arranged was explained at the State Department yesterday. At 4:30 p. m. Thursday, about six hours after the President had talked about the atomic bomb and the Korean situation at a news conference, U. S. Minister Julius C. Holmes wired from London that Attlee wanted to come over and talk with Mr. Truman about "Korea and related matters of mutual interest."

Attlee had asked for prompt concurrence from Mr. Truman so that he could make the announcement during a foreign affairs debate then going on in the House of Commons.

Secretary of State Acheson was at the Pentagon at the time, but returned to the State Department at 4:45 p. m. He called Mr. Truman on the telephone, got his concurrence to the meeting, and then notified London in a single-word message: "Agree." It was all done in about 15 minutes.

Attlee, according to London dispatches yesterday, is expected to insist that the use of the atomic bomb against Chinese Communists is a question which the United Nations—not the United States alone—must decide.

Warning From Asians

India, it was reported, had conveyed this view to the British government: The first power to use another atomic bomb against Asians will be finished in the Far East for good. Asians, it was pointed out, have not forgotten that Asians (Japanese) were the first victims of atomic warfare.

Besides the question of the atomic bomb, an Associated Press dispatch said, London expected these matters to be taken up when Attlee meets the President:

Should a firm U. N. defense line be fixed across the wasp-waist of Korea, well short of Manchuria, as a preliminary to peace talks with Red China?

How may Britain and other nations with forces in Korea have a bigger say in the conduct of the Korean military campaign?

Will the United States join Britain and France in a new effort to settle in talks with Russia the main East-West quarrels throughout the world?

What steps should be taken by the main western powers to make their diplomatic and military strategy in the cold war more effective?

Does the United States accept the Anglo-French view that Europe should retain priority, politically, economically and militarily, over the Far East in the West's program to contain communism?

China Aided in Effort to Halt Japanese

as the foregoing and those which you have in mind along the lines we are taking, together with continuing efforts to strengthen our defenses in the Philippine Islands, paralleled by similar efforts by you in the Singapore area, will tend to increase Japan's hesitation, whereas in Japan's present mood a new formalized verbal warning or remonstrance might have, with at least even chance, an opposite effect.

This whole problem will have our continuing and earnest attention, study and effort.

I shall probably not, repeat not, make express reply to Chiang Kai-shek before the first of next week. Please keep within the confidence of your close official circle what I have said above. F.D.R.

Chiang Kai-shek had appealed to Churchill and F.D.R. for air support against a threatened Jap campaign in the direction of Kunming, which if successful would cut the Burma Road. Our military chiefs counseled against sending armed forces to China, but did recommend the maximum strengthening of the American Volunteer Group under Chennault. The "present mood" of Japan had been made clear from an intercepted message to Nomura which set the deadline of November 25th for our agreeing to Japanese demands. There were increasing signs that Japan was willing to risk war.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Nov. 8, 1941.

Memorandum for the Secretary of the Navy:

I think Harry Hopkins is right. I think word should be passed down the line by Admiral Stark that the more naval officers—not to discipline them ting the better it will be.

For a long time I have wondered what could be done to curb the tongues and pens of retired Army and Navy officers—not to discipline them so much as to make them realize that there is still an active Navy in spite of their own retirement.

I wish you would consider adopting a new system:

(a) Ascertaining whether a speech or an article was actually delivered or written by the retired officer.

(b) If it was, appoint a board consisting of the Secretary of the Navy and two officers to determine whether the speech or article was contrary to the best interests of the Service or the Government. No hearings would be necessary as the facts of authorship would be so simple.

If the opinion of a majority of the board of three was in the affirmative, notation to that effect would be filed with the permanent record of the retired officer in question. F.D.R.

Hopkins was critical of statements made by Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, U.S.N., ret., in an article in Colliers. Admiral Yarnell claimed that the British R.A.F., despite its heroism, had been ineffective as an all-around military tool, and in many cases attacked British units, including a British cruiser, during the chase of the Bismarck. It was greatly resented by the British, and the R.A.F. called it "pure dishwash."

of statehood were Senators Guy Cordon (Oreg.) and Wayne Morse (Oreg.) and Zales N. Ecton (Mont.).

A statement by Senator James O. Eastland (D., Miss.) that he will block any proposed unanimous consent agreement on voting to consider the bill further dimmed chances for action, but O'Mahoney said he wouldn't give up.

Plea to U. N. Foreseen

As statehood prospects faded, Henry A. Benson, Labor Commissioner of Alaska, predicted a movement will be started in the Territory before Christmas to place the issue of Alaskan independence before the United Nations.

The House-Senate speed-up on taxes meanwhile made it increasingly more likely that at least "stop gap" new corporate taxes will be voted this session, followed up by another over-all hike in individual and other levies in the Eighty-second Congress.

A Republican charge that the $3.400,000,000 tax measure was "thrown together" in haste and will penalize business marked yesterday's House Rules Committee hearing.

Representative Daniel A. Reed (R., N. Y.), ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee:

"Psychologically this (tax bill) is a wonderful piece of political machinery. But it's not an excess-profits bill. That's a misnomer. . . . I defy any business in the country to operate successfully under it."

"Pig in a Poke," Says Mason

Representative Noah M. Mason (R., Ill.) called the bill a "pig in the poke" and said "even the experts don't know what's in it."

"There's only one thing in it," replied Representative Jere Cooper (D., Tenn.), "an excess profits tax."

Cooper and Chairman Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.) argued that the bill is far more liberal to business than the World War II tax and its relief provisions will cause fewer hardships.

The bill provides for a 75 percent excess profits tax levy on earnings of 85 percent of a corporation's average annual earnings during its most profitable three years from 1946 through 1949. An optional formula is provided for corporations that prefer to use an invested capital base.

In addition to taxes and rent controls the war situation will bring "a number of other controls next year," Senate Administration Leader W. Scott Lucas (D., Ill.) predicted in the Senate. Lucas did not amplify his forecast.

Weatherman Not Playing on Navy's Side Against Fleet Army Today

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—Another Army-Navy game, the fifty-first, comes up for decision tomorrow with another unbeaten Army team in the role of a forbidding favorite over their service rivals, who are without a victory in the series since 1943.

Nevertheless, the game will attract the traditional capacity crowd of 102,000 fans and President Truman, who with his official White House party will watch from a steam-heated box on the side of Navy, the host team.

POVICH

Against an Army team that is unbeaten in 28 games, Navy will take a record of six defeats and two victories this season and is reduced again to the task of pulling a long-shot upset. Bettors have made Army a 20-point favorite.

Tonight the two teams withdrew to suburban retreats to await the contest, after Navy went through a shake-down drill earlier in the day in Municipal Stadium, scene of the game. The Army squad also familiarized itself with the field in a final workout.

The weatherman tonight stripped Navy of what had loomed as an added weapon—an off field, slowed by rain which was supposed to crimp Army's devastating running attack. He predicted dry weather, cloudy and fairly cold, with no sign of moisture until late tomorrow night.

NAVY'S NEW head coach, Eddie Erdelatz, tomorrow will be asking his Midshipmen to beat an Army team that has yielded only four touchdowns all season, and has averaged 33 points per game with its own offense.

Erdelatz has designed a flexible five-and-six-man line which he hopes will check the charge of such vaunted Army ball-carriers as Al Pollard and Vic Pollock. Pollard has averaged 8.5 yards per carry all season despite the fact he is not designated as a first-string back.

As usual, Navy will be relying chiefly on the forward passing arm of its big quarterback, Bob Zastrow, who has spearheaded what few victories the Middies have achieved in his two years at operating their T-formation.

Army coach Earl Blaik cautiously is predicting no Army victory by any score, and has pointed out all week that "Navy is a different kind of football team when it plays us."

Blaik was referring obviously to recent happenings in the service game—when an underrated Navy team rose up in 1948 to hold the

Doing a Lot With a Little Is Old Story

By Red Smith

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1 (NYHT).—When Eddie Erdelatv was a small boy his mother died and his father, whose professional name was Joe the Bouncer—his profession was keeping saloon in San Francisco—put the kid in a boys' boarding school where, naturally, Eddie got a football team started.

Football gear was somewhat harder to come by in that school than it is today in Annapolis, where the young men whom Eddie coaches are outfitted by the Navy Athletic Association.

One night Eddie and the star halfback of his team went foraging in the equipment room of nearby St. Mary's College. They had their small hands full of cleated shoes when a sound in the building startled them, and they went out through a window in a rush.

Next day they played, wadding paper in the toes of the oversized shoes to take up the slack. The star halfback, ordinarily a nifty kid, had a dreadful afternoon. Every time he took the ball, he tripped and plunged on his face.

It wasn't until after the game that his trouble was diagnosed. The borrowed shoes he was wearing were not only too large; they were both for the left foot.

"YOU SEE," Eddie Erdelatz explains when he tells the story, "he'd been runing side-saddle all afternoon."

With something like that same attitude of wry resigned good humor, Eddie Erdelatz brought the Navy players to town today to perform the lessons he has taught them before the critical eyes of 45 West Point delegates and 100,000 noncombatants.

There is no hotter spot in sports than the coach's seat on either bench at an Army-Navy football game. And the record of recent years has made the job twice as tough at Navy as at Army.

And this is Eddie Erdelatz's first season as head coach in Annapolis; this is his first bath in the boiling caldron of Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

Yet Joe the Bouncer's kid was his normal, personable self when he brought the Midshipman into the stadium for a look at the battlefield where they'll do combat tomorrow.

He managed a grin and a quip when, before the departure from Annapolis, somebody remarked that indignation was rife at West Point because the weekly Associated Press rankings had given Army's team no better than second place in the Nation, behind Oklahoma.

"WE'RE BURNED UP, too," Eddie said. "We're ranked number sixty-five, and we should be sixty-fourth."

He can always manage a grin, this agreeable graduate of St. Mary's and the pros. There was, for example, the occasion earlier this year when he was remarking on the tremendous burden on a boy who tries to carry both a football and an academic course at either of the service institutions. It was infinitely more difficult, he said, than anything he had experienced in college.

"Well, what did you take at St. Mary's?" he was asked.

"The morning paper," Eddie said.

Joe the Bouncer's kid hasn't come up here to lose a football game, and neither have the guys he has brought along.

That is the kind of the game football is. Specifically and especially, it is the kind of game Army and Navy play. It is a battle in which resolution can bridge a much wider gap in ability than exists between the squads of 1950.

55th Game To Attract 30,000 Fans

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 1.—Some 30,000 are expected here tomorrow to witness the unusual spectacle of a Carl Snavely-coached North Carolina team striving desperately to end the season with a victory that will enable it to reach the .500 mark.

Scott Stadium's the place and 1:30 p. m. the kickoff time for the fifty-fifth game in the historic Virginia-Carolina series that began in 1892.

Each team's stake always is high in this rivalry but it doesn't figure to be as high as in last year's game when the Cotton Bowl bid was in the balance.

Virginia finished behind in that one at Chapel Hill, 14-7, just six yards away from the tying touchdown at the final gun. That was Charlie Justice's final salute and the Cavaliers fifth straight loss in the series.

Holdash Leads Carolina Line

The Tar Heels come here with what is for them a horrible record—three wins, four losses and two ties. Virginia's looks much glossier—seven victories and two setbacks.

Carolina will go into the game a five-point favorite.

Against their only mutual foe, William and Mary, Carolina romped, 40-7; Virginia won, 13-0.

It's Carolina's offense that has been off this season. That William and Mary point production was practically half of what it made all year. But it's an indication of what Arlington's Billy Hayes, Dick Bunting & Co. are capable of doing.

Defensively, the Tar Heels are tough. They are led by Center Irv (Huck) Holdash, great linebacker and captain. Holdash made the United Press second All-America team despite his team's lackluster record. Trouble is that Holdash is on the "doubtful" list with an injury that caused him to miss most of the Duke game last week.

Papit Needs Only 94 Yards

Co-Captain Johnny Papit, Virginia's great runner, needs only 94 yards on the ground to close out his career gloriously. If Papit can do it, he will be the first collegiate back to rack up 3000 yards in three years. Johnny already has the total, he was eligible as a freshman and picked up 190 yards. After being hampered by an early-season ankle injury, Papit's ready to roll.

Of interest to Washington area folks will be the final collegiate appearances of North Carolina's Billy Hayes, who played for Washington-Lee of Arlington and Virginia's End Gene Schroeder, former Anacostia High boy.

Other good boys from the D. C. area finishing up are Virginia's Defensive Back Billy Sinclair and Tackle Dick Johnson, who both played for Alexandria's GW High.

Miami Wins, Ends Season Undefeated

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP).—The University of Miami Hurricanes proved their right to meet Clemson in the Orange Bowl when they thrashed the University of Missouri tonight, 27-9, to end the season with a record of nine wins and a tie.

The Hurricanes scored in every period and repulsed Missouri time after time in the shadow of the goal to gain the convincing margin.

With 39,623 spectators in the stands, the Miami team scored the first time it got the ball, marching 80 yards to a touchdown. Harry Mallios, Jim Dooley and Frank Smith tore off Yardage consistently and Bob Schneidenbach sneaked over for the score.

Gordon Watson converted, his first of three for the night.

Miami scored again in the second before Missouri broke the scoring drought and the half ended with Miami in front, 14-7.

From then on, the outcome was never in doubt as Miami's stout line turned back Missouri time after time and the Tigers could manage only a safety in the final 30 minutes of play.

Miami rolled up 20 first downs to 16 for Missouri and gained 246 net yards rushing to the Visitors' 146. Miami completed eight of 15 passes for 123 yards and Missouri tried 13, completed seven for a gain of 60.

Maryland Expected to Rout V.P.I.

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The most bountiful turkey shoot in many seasons is expected to be staged in Byrd Stadium this afternoon with Maryland drawing a bead on the Gobblers from Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

The Terrapins are 42-point favorites to inflict the tenth straight defeat on a VPI team which has yielded an average of 40 points to each of its nine conquerors this season.

It's the season's finale for both Southern Conference teams. Maryland's anticipated cakewalk would bring its record to seven wins, two losses and one tie.

GW Only Common Rival

Against their only common foe, George Washington, the Gobblers were beaten, 42-7, while the in-and-out Terrapins clipped the Colonials, 23-7, which gives you some idea of what to expect beginning at 2 p. m.

For a game that has no bearing on anything except the series standing between the two teams, a crowd of about 12,000 is expected.

Some 5000 of these will be seniors from Virginia, Maryland and Washington high schools who will be guests of the university at its annual senior's day program.

Shemonski After Scoring Title

The rest of the fans will come from the student body and a smattering of cash customers who apparently prefer watching an expected rout in person to seeing an anticipated landslide on television—Army-Navy.

It's the last college game for 16 Marylanders, among them five standout players: End Elmer Wingate, Tackle Ray Krouse—both All-Southern Conference performers; Center and Co-captain Jake Rowden, Tackle Chester Gierula and Defensive Halfback Johnny Idzik.

The game gives Halfback Bob Shemonski his last chance to win the conference's individual scoring championship. To win the honor from Fullback Walt Michaels of W. and L., the Brat must score four times to boost his total to 80 points.

Stranahan, Mayer Tie at 132 in Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP).—Amateur Frank Stranahan and Dick Mayer, 27-year-old professional, tied for the lead at the end of the second round of the $10,000 Miami Open golf tournament today with 8 under par 132s.

Stranahan, former British open champion and winner of the Miami tournament two years ago, carded a five under par 33-32—65 over the long Miami Springs golf course to add to his 67 first round score.

Mayer, of Old Greenwich, Conn., who has yet to win a major tournament, also carded a 65. But for the last two holes, he might have been on top of the heap alone.

He fired a five-under-par 30 on the front side and was six under par going into the seventeenth. The seventeenth hole—downfall of many more seasoned golfers than he—proved his turning point. He finished with an even par 35 on the back side.

Sam Snead, top money winner of the year, from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had the most erratic round of the day. Using borrowed clubs, he was one over par on four holes and still came in with a four under par 66, clocking up an eagle and six birdies.

No Snow and No TV

Redskins Will Have to Beat Only One Foe Sunday: Steelers

The Redskins will not have to play a double-header in Pittsburgh tomorrow.

They'll battle the Steelers only and not the weather. At least that's what the weatherman said last night.

He predicted a cold, clear day for Pittsburgh which has been digging its way out of a record 30-inch snowstorm which hit the town last Saturday.

The Forbes Field gridiron, which was partially covered by a tarpaulin, will be in "about the same shape as Griffith Stadium was last Sunday," Coach Herman Ball said he was told last night. That means it will be damp and hard.

The Redskins were so cheered over the prospects of a good day for football that they cancelled their train reservations last night and will fly out to Pittsburgh today, as they had originally intended.

There'll be no television of Sunday's game. Trucks used to transport cameras and other video equipment, still aren't able to slush their way through the ice-jammed town to the ball park and TV plans for Sunday have been cancelled.

IN SHORT—If the Redskins lose to the Steelers, it'll be the first time in the 13-year-old rivalry that Pitt has beaten the locals twice in the same season. The single-wingers won the first game this year, 26-7 . . . As a precautionary move in case the field is frozen, the 'Skins are taking sneakers with them . . . Guard John Steber will be playing his next-to-the-last game for the Redskins. He's been ordered to report to the Navy January 7 . . . The Steelers, who have brokeen even in 10 games, are 7½ point favorites to beat the Redskins, eight time losers . . .

Former Line Coach Gets 2-Year Pact

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 1 (AP).—Ed Price, the man most responsible for the terrific Texas football line, was elected head coach of the Longhorns by the University Board of Regents today.

Given the hot-spot coaching post for two years starting January 1 at $12,000 a year, Price recognized he had a tough job cut out for him.

Price was promoted to the top position—yielded by Cherry—on the unanimous recommendation of the University Athletic Council and by unanimous vote of the regents attending today's meeting.

Tenth head coach of Texas football since the Southwest Conference was inaugurated in 1915, Price inherits one of the most rugged coaching assignments

It is rough because the giant State university has a tremendous former student body, plus thousands of other fans, who expect, and demand Texas to be football kingpin. Texas has lost only a one-point decision to Oklahoma this year, has swept to an unblemished conference championship, is rated third nationally, and will play in its third bowl game in four years under Cherry. Yet Cherry has been under steady fire from people who don't like his brand of football.

Cherry went to the hospital with ulcers this week.

How does Price relish his new job?

"You can get ulcers in any business," he said.

Shotton 'Sour,' Through With Big-Time Ball

BARTOW, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Burt Shotton, deposed this week as Brooklyn manager in favor of Chuck Dressen, said today he was through with big-time baseball.

"The deal I got this time made me a little sour," Shotton told Loyal Frisbie of the Polk County Democrat.

A veteran of 42 years in baseball, Shotton said he might do "a few odd jobs" in the sport from time to time, but has no immediate plans.

Krouse, Gierula To Play on Stars

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 1 (AP).—Two giant tackles from the University of Maryland—248-pound Ray Krouse and 220-pound Chester Gierula—today accepted bids to play against the Richmond Rebels at City Stadium December 10, bringing to 15 the number of men now on the Southern Conference area All-Stars' roster.

Krouse and Gierula have been regular tackles for the past two seasons for Coach Jim Tatum's split-T Terrapins. Krouse, a second team All-America selection in 1949, was selected this week on the second All-Southern Conference team. Gierula hails from Allentown, Pa.

Ishman Leads Taller Eagles

American U. Tries to Stop Quantico, Nichols Tonight

If American University can hold the Quantico Marines' Jack Nichols to 20 points tonight in their basketball game at the Eagles' gym, American Coach Staff Cassell figures on opening its season with a victory.

The Leathernecks have already run over two opponents, Bolling Field, 80-47, and the University of Maryland, 72-57.

American has four starters from last year's Mason-Dixon conference championship team in tonight's lineup. Chief among them is Leroy Ishman, Washington's leading college scorer with 394 points last season.

Besides Ishman, 6 feet, 4 inches, the Eagles will start Sherwood Webster, 6-5, Ronnie Garshag, 6-6, Art Morales, 6-1, and Eddie Moffatt 6-2. Moffatt is the only starter not a regular last season and he saw a lot of reserve action.

The Eagles' starting lineup will average slightly taller than Quantico's.

Supporters of the local college point out that the Eagles have lost only two games at home in their last two years.

Besides Nichols, he Leathernecks have Richmond's Elmo Stephenson, Georgetown's Frank Alagia, and Chuck Skinner of Ithaca in the starting lineup.

Daily Double

Culmone Wins 2 More At Bowie

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

BOWIE, Dec. 1.—Joe Culmone accounted for his two winners for the day but his backers went down swinging four times after they installed the saucy Sicilian's mount as the favorite. In fact, those who invested in public choices this afternoon were shut out as long shots and near longshots popped with regularity.

Culmone began like a hurricane and ended the day as mild as a zephyr. He made a personal proposition out of the daily double which paid $62.60 on the 4-and-1 combination. He took the first race with Henry Hoover's Toronto at $13.80 and followed up this success with victory aboard H. C. Boorse's Lady Pam, paying $19.80.

The parade of moon shooters' delight went right into the day's feature, the Oak Leaf Purse. This went to Louis Tufano's Uncle Edgar, ridden by Apprentice Darrell Hartley.

With Culmone out of the money on the favorite, Hasty House Farms' Wine List, second money as taken by Mrs. J. T. Mahoney's Big If which finished three parts of a length in advance of Mrs. W. E. Snellin's Black and Blue.

Young Hartley, who rode 50 winners in his native Canada this year, came back in the eighth race to produce a $68.60 pay-off on little regarded but long-named Rise-To-Follow. Only a handful of bettors took the hunch.

In addition to Culmone and Hartley, another rider got home with two winners. He was Nick Shuk who has reached near-sensational form at this meeting although attracting little attention with Culmone around.

Shuk won the third race with Arthur Cote's Swyndor, paying $59.40 and took the fifth event aboard Edward Rollins' St. George, which returned a $55.60 win mutuel.

Culmone Hikes Lead Over Shoemaker

Jockey Joe Culmone increased his lead over Willie Shoemaker to 11 today to take a 356 to 345 edge in their race for national riding honors. Culmone rode two winners (Toronto $13.80 and Lady Pam, $19.80) at Bowie to Shoemaker's one winner (Bargellic, $13.60) at Hollywood.

Sita Tosses 16-Yard Pass To Prender

By Bill Gilbert

Halfback Ralph Sita, who led Eastern to the Interhigh championship eight days ago, paced the Ramblers to the city championship at Griffith Stadium last night with a 16-yard touchdown pass to End Don Prender for a 6-0 victory over St. John's.

Sita's payoff pass came with only five minutes left to play.

A crowd of 14,088 fans saw the Ramblers, seven-point underdogs, end St. John's hopes of an undefeated season after the Cadets had gone through nine regular season games without a loss.

It was the eighth victory for the Ramblers, who lost only to Washington-Lee High of Arlington and were tied 12-12, by Anacostia in September.

Quarterback Tommy McHan, who pitched out to Sita on the play that brought Eastern victory, set the score in motion when he intercepted a pass by St. John's End Joe Hands on the Eastern 35-yard line and returned it to the Ramblers' 45.

Jimmy Sullivan, coming into the game for McHan, connected with End Richie Ward, who was pulled down from behind by Jack Cornell on the St. John's 13.

A backfield in motion penalty put the Ramblers back to the 18. McHan gained two to the 16, and then Sita found Prender in the end zone with 5 minutes remaining.

The pass from center on Dave Keys' attempt for the conversion was over McHan's head.

The Johnnies drove 20 yards after the kickoff, but a fourth-down pass from Tom Clark to Tom Collins was 1 foot short of a first down on the Eastern 46 and the Ramblers took over. It turned out to be the loser's last threat.

Weatherman Not Playing On Navy's Side in Game Today

Cadets to a 21-21 tie, and in 1946 when a team of Middies that was deemed not to have a chance of beating Army was stalled by the final gun within four yards of the winning touchdown.

NAVY will be going into the game with an offense that has added power in recent weeks, with the addition of Dave Bannerman to its running game. Bannerman, used only on defense in the early games, was restored to the running backfield at fullback two games ago, and has ground out more yardage than any other Navy back.

Against Army's two platoons, Erdelatz will be throwing no fewer than five 60-minute men, maybe six. Both of Navy's guards, Dave Fischer and Bill Steele, will play offense and defense, and so will left end Paul Tetrault. Frankie Hauff and Bill Powers, who will team with Bannerman and Zastrow in the offense backfield, will also play defense.

Navy has been a hot-and-cold team all season, handicapped by the lack of poundage in its backfield in contrast to the heft of the Army backs—particularly the 190-pound Pollard who has the speed to sweep the ends and the bulk to crash inside.

For most of the past week Navy has been emphasizing its defense against the varied T attack of the Cadets, directed by Bob Blaik, the coach's son, who does the passing and kicking, and is deft with his handoffs to Pollard, Gil Stephenson, Frank Fischl and Jack Martin.

Navy has been alerted, too, to the hidden threat of Gene Filipski, the fast-stepping halfback who was unveiled against Penn by Army, and who broke that game wide open with a pair of long-distance scoring dashes.

In what apparently has been a desperation move, Erdelatz has installed some single-wing plays along with his T formation. He had hoped to keep it a secret, but the news leaked and Army supposedly is prepared for any sort of Navy offense.

3 New Caps Face Celtics Here Tonight

By Dave Heller
Post Reporter

Basketball fans will get a look at three new Washington Caps tonight as the locals present a vastly changed lineup for their game with Coach Red Auerbach's Boston Celtics at Uline Arena.

The three, all bought within the last four days, are Ed Bartels and Ed Mikan, acquired last Wednesday, were joined by Tommy Byrnes who was purchased from the Baltimore Bullets last night.

Byrnes is 27, weighs 180 pounds, and specializes in defense. Last year he scored 227 points in 53 games with Baltimore. He has been in the pro big leagues for five years.

Coach Bones McKinney plans to start Mikan tonight to give Center Chick Halbert some much-needed rest.

The return of Chuck Gilmur and Bill Sharman from the injured list has given a shot in the arm to both the defensive and offensive game of the locals.

Jump shot artist Sharman racked up 34 points in the two games he has played since his twisted ankle mended.

McKinney Cuts McKinney From Squad

After due consideration, Coach Bones McKinney decided that Player Bones McKinney was the most expendable man on the squad and lopped his name from the player list.

Terps Hang On to Beat Virginia

Maryland "froze" the ball for the last minute and squeezed out a 59-57 victory over Virginia at College Park last night.

Leading, 59-52, with less than three minutes remaining, the Terps were forced into a game of "pass and keep" by two fast Cavalier baskets.

The Terps refused two foul shots and took the ball out of bounds, only to have Virginia's Al Morris convert a free throw to make it 59-57, Maryland, with a minute left to play.

In a preliminary game, the Maryland freshmen defeated Fort Myer, Va., 61-32. Ed Cahill, 6-foot 4-inch forward from Providence, R. I., paced the winners with 20 points.

$20,000 Race Tops Bowie's Getaway Day

BOWIE, Dec. 1.—With the $20,000 added Bryan and O'Hara Memorial Handicap topping the program, the 1950 Maryland racing season closes tomorrow.

Only nine horses have been entered in the mile and three-sixteenths race, with Hasty House Farm sending out the topweighted pair of Inseparable and Seaward. Biggest threat to the pair will be the Brookmeade Stable entry of Dart By, Picador and Blue Hills.

Sylvester W. Labrot's Arcave, L. J. Shaw's Abstract and James Jenkins, jr.'s Chiloe II are the others in the lineup.

Both Inseparable and Seaward have won a stake race at this meeting and it is for this reason that they are weighted at 124 and 122

Noor, the heavy favorite, paid $3.50, $2.50 and $2.10, Palestinian $3.60 and $2.10, and Assault $2.10.

Up to 200,000 Jobs May Be Provided In New Defense Bill

The 18-billion-dollar supplemental defense bill which the President yesterday recommended to Congress will mean tens of thousands of additional Federal employes.

If the funds are approved, one official estimated it would mean upwards of 200,000 more civilians in the Army, Navy and Air Force. The precise estimates of new employes will be released by the Defense Department in a few days.

Meanwhile, funds to hire more than 400 new Federal workers in a dozen different agencies were sought from Congress earlier by the President. A breakdown of these requests follows:

Social Security's Bureau of Old-Age & Survivor's Insurance in Baltimore would get about 1300 new employes to handle the expanded Social Security law to become effective on January 1. The President asked that its limitation on administrative expenses be raised $3,300,000.

Commodity Credit Corporation, an Agriculture agency, would get about 1000 new employes under the President's recommendation that its limit on administrative expenses be increased by $3,850,000. CCC would use the employes to manage its increased inventories of grain and other agricultural commodities.

Justice's Immigration & Naturalization Service would get $3,250,000 under the President's plan. It would use the funds to hire about 625 full-time employes to apprehend, detain, and deport aliens under the McCarran anti-Communist law. In addition, the agency could hire about 700 clerical employes to check its records of aliens for a three-month period.

Other proposed Justice increases: $430,000 to hire attorneys and clerical personnel to help carry out the McCarran law, and $149,000 for the Federal Prison System.

Commerce's Export Control would get $925,000 to hire about 270 employes to handle the increased volume of applicants to make shipments of United States goods abroad. Its Bureau of Public Roads would get 34 new employes out of the four million dollars the President recommended for it. And the Bureau of Standards would be able to move its guided missile work here to Corona, Calif., under another proposal by the President.

Funds also were recommended to hire about 100 new employes for Interior's Southwestern Power Administration, and 63 workers for its Bonneville Power Administration. The Office of Education would get about 25 new employes. The new Subversive Activities Control Board would get only $250,000 for six months of work which means its staff won't exceed 75 employes, and the Office of the Housing Administrator would get $1,200,000 to keep it in business for at least another three months.

MORE JOBS: The Marine Corps headquarters here in the Arlington Annex is hiring supply cataloguers at $3100 to $3825 startling salaries. Three years experience required. Apply in Room 1018 of the Annex . . . ECA is hiring stenographers for duty in Manila at $3210 salaries, plus living and housing allowances. Call Sterling 6400, Branch 2872 for details.

VA: The Veterans Administration is giving lay-off notices to about 500 employes in its claims adjudication service. Most of the discharges are in its regional offices.

The lay-off was immediately denounced by George E. Ijams of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, as "senseless and short - sighted." Ijams said he had been informed that the Budget Bureau forced the lay-off after the claims service overspent its budget allowance by $1,500,000. The cutback, he said, would seriously impair service to veterans at a time when claims were increasing as a result of the Korean war. He charged the Budget Bureau was "short-sighted" in forcing the cut.

RFC: E. Allen Kenyon yesterday was appointed comptroller of Reconstruction Finance. He succeeds James W. Considine who entered private business. Kenyon is assistant director of corporation audits for the general Accounting Office.

Hearings Set On Extension Of District Rent Control

2 Sessions Ordered Next Week By Senate Group on Neely's Measure

Two hearings on District rent control extension were ordered yesterday for next week by the Senate District Committee.

The hearings will center on the bill of District Chairman Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.). The measure calls for extending District controls from January 31 to February 28, 1951.

It also would restore controls on apartment units in hotels and roll rents back to the date of the Korean invasion, June 24. Another section would restore controls on hundreds of housing units obtained by conversion of older facilities.

Supporters of District rent control extension will be heard starting at 10 a. m. Monday. Opponents of the plan will be heard starting at 10 a. m. Tuesday. The hearings will be in the Senate District Committee room in the Capitol.

Federal Controls

The extension of District controls would keep the local law in effect as long as the Federal law continued under a bill proposed by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

The existing Federal law ends December 31 except in communities that vote to extend control through June 30, 1951. The bill for extension of Federal controls is slated for Senate action Monday, while a 90-day extension plan it to be the subject of a House hearing at 2 p. m. Monday.

Keyed to the Capitol moves on rent control was a warning issued last night by the Democratic National Committee that dropping of Federal controls at this time would be a sharp blow to the economic health of the Nation.

Warning By Boyle

This was the theme of the committee's weekly letter written by Chairman William M. Boyle, jr. He said sharp increases of rents in some sections would result from removal of controls, and would in turn disrupt the economy in every part of the United States."

Senator Neely appointed a three-member subcommittee, with himself as chairman, to conduct the District rent hearings. The other members are Senators Lester C. Hunt (D., Wyo.) and Robert C. Hendrickson (R., N. J.).

The decision to have hearings on District rent control extension was made in an afternoon meeting of the Senate District Committee yesterday.

Senator Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho) suggested that the matter be deferred until the new Congress, since the existing District rent law will stay in force until January 31.

But Dworshak withdrew this objection after committee counsel Gerhard P. Van Arkle, cited past delays in organizing the congressional District committees.

In another move, Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.) of the House District Committee, introduced a bill to extend District rent control for the duration of the defense emergency and end it only by joint congressional resolution.

Expansion Job Of Water Plant Faced With Delay

Completion of a two-million-dollar expansion at the District's Bryant st. pumping station—nearly finished after four years work—may be delayed for lack of funds.

The District Water Division yesterday received a low bid of $668,300 on the final, but vital, contract to install 10 new electric pumps already bought. But Water Division Superintendent David Auld has only $453,000 for the job.

Auld said the bids received yesterday from two firms will be rejected. The work probably will be divided into several smaller jobs and resubmitted for bids, he added.

Auld said he is considering the possibility of using District employes to help install the pumps. But regardless of how much cost-trimming can be done, it probably will be necessary to ask for more money to complete the job, Auld said And this will require an act of Congress.

Pending on Hill

Park Group Again Backs Planning Bill

The Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission yesterday reaffirmed its support of the Metropolitan Washington planning bill pending before Congress.

The commission, which serves Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, noted that the bill not only would clarify the relationship between the National Commission and its suburban counterparts, but also:

1. Would allow Maryland and Virginia to be represented for the first time on the National Commission.

2. Would give the National Commission and suburban agencies acting through it some control for the first time over the location of Federal installations in the metropolitan region.

3. Would extend to the Virginia suburbs the same privileges for river valley park acquisition as Maryland has enjoyed the past 20 years.

The Maryland-NCPPC said it preferred the original wording of the bill providing for one Maryland member and one Virginia member on the National Commission but would not object to a "reasonable modification" if it would hasten enactment of the bill.

The commission said it favors a recent proposal of the Upper Montgomery County Planning Commission over a proposal offered by the Northern Virginia Regional Planning Commission for modification of the bill.

The Upper Montgomery County Commission suggested that two representatives from each of Maryland and Virginia be on the National Commission. The Northern Virginia Commission suggested each regional and planning commission in the Washington environs be represented on the National Commission. This would give Virginia five representatives and Maryland only two.

Woman Gets $5700 For Injuries When Parked Car Rolled

Mrs. Martha Kane, 61, of 1912 Q st. se., yesterday was awarded $5700 damages by a District Court jury for injuries she suffered when a parked car rolled down a hill and struck her.

The verdict was against George W. Randel, of 2319 Minnesota ave. se., driver of the car before it was parked, and his father, Charles M. Randel, owner of the automobile.

Mrs. Kanes suffered a fractured leg, and other injuries when the automobile on July 21, 1948, rolled down a grade near Minnesota ave. and White pl. se.

2 N. E. Schools May Be Given To Negro Use

Corning Would Switch Ludlow and Maury To Relieve Congestion

School officials are studying a proposal to transfer two white elementary schools in northeast Washington to use by Negro students.

The schools are the Ludlow, 6th and G sts. ne., and Maury, 12th and B sts. ne.

School Superintendents Hobart M. Corning will recommend their reassignment at a meeting of the Board of Education Wednesday at 3:30 p. m., to relieve overcrowding in neighborhood Negro schools.

Ludlow and Maury are in areas in which the population is shifting from white to Negro. Enrollment at Ludlow has dropped to 126 students and at Maury to 199. Each building has a capacity of 288.

Dr. Carl Hansen, associate superintendent of schools, said that if the transfer is approved students at Maury will be sent to Edmonds and Kingsman Schools. Ludlow students will go to Peabody, Blair or Madison.

The Maury transfer would be effective Febraury 1, Dr. Corning said. The move would place the six part-time classes of Negro students at Lovejoy School on full time. Lovejoy, with a capacity of 720 students, has an enrollment of 964.

Additional funds to pay Negro teachers would be needed for Ludlow. Use of the school would cut class sizes at Logan, where as many as 40 to 43 children are crowded into classrooms.

Burton Holmes Gives Lecture Here on Ireland

Burton Holmes, veteran traveler and lecturer, last ngiht showed motion pictures on Ireland and the annual August break-up of Alaska's Knik Glacier before a weekly National Geographic Society lecture audience in Constitution Hall.

Sesqui Show To Be Given Next Year

Commission Votes To Repeat Drama In Amphitheater For 1951 Season

Washington's sesquicentennial drama, "Faith of Our Fathers," will be shown again next year in the Carter T. Barron amphitheater, Rock Creek Park.

The decision was announced last night by Melvin D. Hildreth, executive secretary of the Sesquicentennial Commission, after a closed meeting of the executive committee.

Hildreth said the committee unanimously agreed to revive the production in the belief that there is "a strong need for a patriotic pageant at this time."

Paul Green, the playwright, will revise parts of the drama to put greater emphasis on the City Washington, Hildreth stated. He added that it is hoped to reduce admission prices—perhaps to as low as 50 cents—and to permit free parking.

Paul Massman, the Sesqui general manager, said budget figures were presented to the committee yesterday that indicated continuation of the show would be financially feasible. But it was the world situation rather than the question of money that made the production's future questionable, he explained.

Massman said "Faith of Our Fathers" is scheduled to reopen about June 15 and run until the end of September for 83 performances.

No decision was reached yesterday, Hildreth reported, on whether Massman will stay next year as general manager of the city's 150th birthday party.

4 Hospitalized After Meal in Alexandria

Four persons were admitted to Alexandria Hospital with food poisoning yesterday, several hours after they had eaten a macaroni and cheese dish at an Alexandria restaurant.

All four were reported to be in fair condition. They are: E. L. Kent, 42, of 500 E. Nelson st.; George Beattie, 35, of 724 S. St. Asaph st.; Mrs. Anna Pettit, 66, of 424 N. Payne st., Alexandria, and Sol Benick, 29, of 315 Decatur st. nw.

Dr. Thomas McGough, Alexandria health officer, said tests are being made of the macaroni and cheese, believed to have been contaminated with a germ after it was cooked.

He said the germ produced a toxin, which caused severe vomiting and diarrhea within one to two hours after the food was eaten. It did not affect the taste or odor of the food, he added.

The dish was served to approximately 20 persons. Only the four cases of illness were discovered, Dr. McGough said. He added that some of the other persons who ate the food may have suffered minor discomfort but did not report it.

Dr. McGough said he hoped the incident would serve to emphasize the need for food establishments to observe all Health Department regulations.

$17,000 Damage Caused by Fire in Giant Food Store

Damage of $17,000 was estimated yesterday from a fire in the Giant Food Store, 8735 Flower ave., Silver Spring, Md., Wednesday night.

County Fire Marshal Charles H. Howe said the fire was confined to a rear storage room and an upstairs room, and was possibly caused by a lighted cigarette in an employe's locker.

Most of the damage was done to cheese, meats and other perishables from smoke which spread through the building.

Morningside Told to Improve Road or Forfeit School Bus

Lower Morningside, Md., parents were told by Suitland school heads yesterday that if Woodland rd. was not improved by December 11 school bus transportation would be discontinued.

The notice was contained in a letter given to pupils to take home to their parents, and was signed by John W. Heim, supervisor of transportation; A. E. Bracken, principal, and approved by G. Gardner Shugart, superintendent of schools.

The letter said bus service through Lower Morningside will be resumed only when road conditions are made "suitable for safe transportation of school children."

"We hope you will take an interest in this problem, and ask that you cooperate with your town officials, who are working for better road conditions in Lower Morningside," the letter concluded.

Heim said later it was "a maintenance problem. We are not trying to force hard surfacing." He estimated discontinuance of service would mean some children would have to walk as much as ½ mile farther to the school bus.

William Spahr, mayor of Morningside, a recently incorporated town, said he and other members of the town council had been working on the road themselves in an effort to "save a little money." The mayor said if they were not able to get the road asphalted in time they would use road scrapers and have the potholes filled in.

"We are doing the best we can with the funds we have," he said.

Groveton to Ask Court To Okay Water Mains

Fairfax County Circuit Court will be asked to establish a sub-sanitary district in Groveton to permit installation of water mains and fire hydrants.

The Groveton Citizens Association will circulate petitions asking the court to act, as the result of an apartment house fire in which Mrs. Raymond L. Harper and her three small children were burned to death. Without hydrants, firemen had to carry water nearly a mile from the Penn-Daw firehouse.

Drinking Driver Fined $500; Case Was Continued 14 Times

After 16 court appearances in the same case, James Horace Mitchell, 52, yesterday was sentenced to pay a $500 fine or serve six months in jail for drunken driving.

The sentence was the maximum for a first offender. Judge Ellen K. Raedy pointed out that although Mitchell had been convicted of drunken driving in 1940, he was not charged as a second offender in the new case.

Mitchell, a salesman residing at 11 Riggs rd. ne., was arrested October 21, 1949, after police observed his automobile weaving across the road at Missouri and New Hampshire aves. nw.

The case was continued 14 times in court before Mitchell ever came to trial before Judge Raedy. Then she continued the case for sentencing after the jury convicted Mitchell.

The number of continuances caused Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King to protest that the delay was hindering the Government and inconveniencing witnesses and policemen in the case.

After sentencing, Mitchell paid the $500 fine.

WILLIAM A. REYNOLDS
To mark century of life on Sunday

Slave-Born D. C. Resident 100 on Sunday

Slave-born William A. Reynolds, who will be 100 years old Sunday, yesterday revealed how you get that way: "Live right and serve the Lord."

Words come slowly when one is 100, but they come with conviction. Mr. Reynolds wrapped his hands around the cane-head and spoke:

"Best I can tell, I always lived right. I commenced serving the Lord when I was 18.

"Serve the Lord. Serving the Lord. I tried to be honest—pay my honest debts. I got no debts hanging behind me."

The lineage includes five children—one of whom is living—seven grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren and seven great-great-grandchildren, all of whom are living.

Until three years ago Mr. Reynolds loved most of all to sit reading the Bible. He can no longer read but his mind retains many details of his youth as a slave in the South.

Though opposed to his slaves learning to read, the master of the farm near Atlanta, Ga., helped the Reynolds family get a start as freedmen after the Civil War. The master gave them a crop to farm, from the sale of which they went to North Carolina for a fresh start.

After a period of farming in the Tar Heel State, Mr. Reynolds went to work as caretaker on the place of Joseph J. Stone, a well-known businessman of Greensboro, N. C., remaining active until he was 90. He is proud of the fact that Stone made a special trip to Washington this week to congratulate him on his approaching 100th birthday.

Christ Child Home Allotted $154,000

Allocation of $154,000 in Federal hospital construction funds to the Christ Child Convalescent Home, Rockville, Md., has been announced by the Maryland State Board of Health.

The funds will be used in construction of a new convalescent home on Edson la., near Garrett Park, which will provide for care of 54 children instead of 31 for whom quarters are available in the present home near Rockville.

Hillside Man Cleared Of Rape Charges

Joseph F. Burke, 40, Hillside, Md., was acquitted in Prince Georges County Circuit Court yesterday of charges that he raped a 38-year-old Capitol Heights mother of six children.

The all-male jury was out only 40 minutes before finding Burke not guilty of rape, assault with intent to rape, and assault and battery. Burke admitted intercourse with the woman but denied raping her.

Group Backs Howard for Judgeship

Nomination Sent To Senate After Unanimous Vote

Unanimous Senate District Committee approval of the nomination of Andrew J. Howard, jr., as Associate Judge of Municipal Court, was voted yesterday.

Committee Chairman Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.) then forwarded the nomination to the Senate, where approval is expected, probably Monday.

Howard now is serving under a recess appointment by President Truman. Numerous lawyers turned up at a committee hearing to approve the nomination.

Neely clamped down sharply on G. W. Lindsey, 1447 Massachusetts ave., during a 40-minute protest against Howard's appointment.

Lindsey based his protest on the fact that Howard was an assistant United States attorney at a time when Lindsey unsuccessfully sought a warrant against two men he said assaulted him.

In the finale Neely read an opinion by Municipal Judge George D. Neilson upholding the decision not to give Lindsey a warrant.

After the committee voted approval of Howard, Lindsey sought to continue his testimony. Following several efforts, Neely warned that if he persisted, police would be called to put him out. With that Lindsey put on his coat and walked out of the room, slamming the door.

Bar Association Hails Judge Armond W. Scott

Armond W. Scott, judge of the Municipal Court, was honored last night at a Washington Bar Association banquet celebrating his fifteenth year on the bench, and twenty-fifth anniversary of the Washington Bar Association.

Scott

Judge Scott was presented with a bronze plaque inscribed: "In recognition of his excellent record as a jurist, whose wealth of experience, high sense of principle, deep seated humaneness, courage of personal conviction, and rare sense of humor, have combined to form in him a personality most desireable as a judge, and whose service has been a distinct credit to his contemporaries."

Nathan Cayton, chief judge of the Municipal Court of Appeals was the principal speaker. He cited Judge Scott for his influence in establishing the Small Claims Court and reforming the Landlord and Tenants' Court.

Judge Cayton praised the Washington Bar Association "for instituting a new concept of the administration of justice."

Judge Scott also received a portrait of himself painted by Richard W. Dempsey.

Two Women Meet Instant Death When Hit by Auto

Struck Down on Mt. Vernon Blvd., Alexandria; Driver

A 72-year-old woman and her daughter-in-law were killed instantly by an automobile last night as they crossed Mount Vernon blvd. in Alexandria on their way to a bingo game.

Mrs. Mamie Ella Hammill, 332 South Patrick st., Alexandria, was run over by the car, while Mrs. Elizabeth Chester Hammill, 51 of 1712 Abingdon st., Alexandria, was swept up onto the hood and carried about 30 feet, police reported.

Driver of the car was identified as Joseph M. Carroll, 50, a painter, of 405 10th st. ne. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Stanley King, in Alexandria, on a charge of reckless driving. Bond was set at $1000.

Driver Treated for Shock

Police said the accident occurred at 7:20 p. m. at Slater's la. and Mount Vernon blvd. Carroll told police he first saw the two women directly in front of his car in the roadway, but it was too late to avoid striking them. He was treated for shock at Alexandria Hospital before being taken to the City Police Station.

The older Mrs. Hammill had gone to the apartment of her daughter-in-law, manager of the Abingdon Apartments, to accompany her to a bingo game, police said.

They were crossing the highway to catch a bus for Washington, police reported, when they were struck by the automobile. The bodies were identified at the Cunningham Funeral Home, Alexandria, by Lucian G. Berry, the younger Mrs. Hammill's son-in-law.

An unidentified motorist told police Carroll was driving south toward Alexandria in the inner traffic lane alongside his car. The driver in the outside lane, noticing the two women in his path, flashed his upper beam lights in hopes of making them more clearly visible to Carroll, but to no avail.

Six Survivors Each

Mrs. Mamie Hammill in addition to her son, Chester, is survived by three other sons, Raymond C., Bernard and Leonard, all of Alexandria, and three daughters, Mrs. Naamon Massey and Mrs. Sadie Penn, both of Alexandria, and Mrs. Edna Hennage, who lives in the District.

Mrs. Chester Hammill, in addition to her husband, is survived by two sons, James and Robert Hammill, and four daughters, Mrs. Lucian G. Berry, Mrs. Doris Plaugher and Miss Betty Jane Hammill, all of Alexandria, and Mrs. Joan Pridgen of Annandale, and four grandchildren.

Brown Given 15 Years–Life In Bat Killing

Charlie H. (Three Finger) Brown, 55-year-old 9th st. floater, was sentenced yesterday to serve from 15 years to life imprisonment for killing a flophouse manager with a baseball bat.

Brown was convicted of second-degree murder in the bludgeon death of Raymond E. (Big Red) Lewis on the Mall last June near the Smithsonian Institution.

When asked whether he wished to say anything, the wrinkle-faced Brown declared:

"I want to thank your honor for the leniency you have given me."

"You'd better show your appreciation to the jury. You are lucky that I am not sentencing you to the electric chair," snapped Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut.

"Thank you, Your Honor," replied Brown.

Robert F. McCall, 25, of 4538 Eads st. ne., received 7 to 25 years in prison for second-degree murder. He was held in the fatal beating of Frank Fenwick, 52, last April.

Two soldiers received 5 to 15 years each for robbing a man of $27 after forcing him into the doorway of his home. They are Harrison Royster, 19, and Elmer L. Patterson, 23, both of Fort Belvoir.

Thomas N. Carter, 23, of 1229 Union ct. sw., received two to eight years for assault with intent to rape a 61-year-old woman.

James R. Warren, 42, of 2200 Hall pl. nw., received two to eight years in prison for committing an unnatural sex act on a 13-year-old boy. Judge Edward A. Tamm recommended that Warren be given psychiatric treatment.

Robert N. H. Catlow, 33, former radio official at Walter Reed Hospital, received from six months to 18 months for sending information through the mails on how to receive indecent pictures.

D. C. Urged to Use Two Sites It Owns for Metered Parking

The D. C. Motor Vehicle Parking Agency yesterday urged the Commissioners to establish two metered parking lots on unused District-owned land.

The agency recommended establishing meters on a 60-foot strip of the Matthew G. Emery estate at Georgia ave. and Madison st. nw., using the land facing on Madison st. This would accommodate 100 vehicles in two lines of diagonal stalls.

The second site is at Georgia ave. and Peabody st. nw., where the old Brightwood School, long abandoned, is being torn down. This lot would have 50 car spaces.

A proposal for a third parking lot alongside Seaton Elementary School, 2d, 3d, H and I sts. nw., was tabled. The school and recreation boards want the land for play activities, Charles M. Upham, agency chairman, said.

The recreation board also objected to use of the Emery site, declaring it has asked for funds for its development as an all-year playground.

The parking agency will confer with Inspector John E. Fondahl, acting civil defense director, on use of any planned bomb shelters as parking facilities in non-emergency periods. This is being planned in Boston and is under study in New York City.

Body Found in Woods Is Alexandria Woman

The body of a woman found near Fredericksburg, Va., November 21 was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. Carmelite Smith, 42, of 310 S. Lee st., Alexandria.

She was the wife of Russell Smith, legislative secretary for the National Farmers Union. She was last at her home October 27.

Smith notified police Wednesday that she was missing after he read about the discovery of the body in Stafford County off U. S. 1, about 10 miles north of Fredericksburg, Alexandria police said.

He told police his wife decided to make a trip and asked him to drive her to a bus stop. He said he drove south along U. S. 1 to a stop at Aquia, Va., where she left the car. She was found dead four-tenths of a mile from that spot, police said.

In Poor Health

Smith said he tried unsuccessfully to persuade her not to make the trip. But she had been in poor health and under the care of a psychiatrist for some time, and he felt it would help her, he told police.

He added, according to police, that he was not alarmed when he did not hear from her later because she made trips on previous occasions.

Authorities of both Alexandria and Stafford County are investigating her death.

Dr. L. F. Lee, Stafford County coroner, said he is withholding a certificate pending further investigation.

Major Edgar Sims, Alexandria police chief, said "we can see no indication of foul play at this time." He added "there will be further investigation, however."

Barbiturates Found

Mrs. Smith was found in a wooded area, lying against a tree. Her shoes and pocketbook were missing. A small change purse with several dollars in it was found by the body. Several bottles containing some barbiturate pills, an empty thermos jug with no top, a paper cup and a half-pint milk bottle, partially filled with water, were found nearby.

Identification was finally established yesterday by dental plates.

Police said Smith also identified the clothing.

A member of The Washington Post's national bureau in 1936 and 1937, Smith worked for the Department of Agriculture before joining the National Farmers Union.

The Smiths have two sons, Strube, 16, a student at Episcopal High School in Alexandria, and Russell, jr., 23, a student at Columbia University.

Clogged Oil Burner

Fumes Fell 2 In Arlington Family of 6

A father and his 14-year-old daughter were briefly overcome early yesterday by fumes from a defective oil burner in their home at 827 S. Glebe rd., Arlington.

All six members of the family were forced to leave the house about 3:30 a. m. after the father, James O. Atkins, 42, heard a noise in the bathroom, investigated, and found that his eldest daughter, Sylvia, had collapsed.

Atkins, foreman for a Falls Church contractor, said he rushed to the head of the cellar stairs to shut off the oil burner emergency switch, then blacked out from the fumes himself.

Neighbors came to the rescue when Atkins' wife, Mrs. Mary Atkins, 36, ran from the house calling for aid.

Both Atkins and his daughter were helped from the house, along with two other daughters, Althea, 4, and Gwendolyn, 12. Also in the house was Atkins' brother-in-law, Odell Adams, 23.

Atkins and his daughter, Sylvia, were treated on the scene by members of the Arlington ambulance squad. Atkins said his clogged oil burner apparently caused the fumes.

Remon's Nomination Approved Unanimously

John A. Remon's nomination to membership in the District Redevelopment Land Agency was unanimously approved yesterday by the Senate District committee.

The nomination is slated for Senate action Monday.

Foster Mother of 55 Awarded 'Oscar' for Chest Drive Work

Mrs. Zelma Byers of Route 1, Fairfax, Va., foster mother of nine children, found time to do some red feather campaigning this year.

The graying widow had on many occasions in the past 10 years—during which time she fostered some 55 children—asked help from the Community Chest.

At the time of her husband's death her son, Dwight, 11, contracted rheumatic fever, and the Chest's hospitalization fund aided her. The Child Guidance Clinic of Falls Church counselled her during the years she has been "Mom" Byers to orphaned children and youngsters from broken homes.

Summers at Camp Goodwill, Triangle, Va., a Chest-supported camp, strengthened Dwight's health.

Remembering all this, Mrs. Byers visited houses of the friendly community between Centerville and Camp Washington—her campaign area—asking for Red Feather contributions.

It meant getting up still earlier in the morning, and sometimes asking a "bay sitter" to take over management of the grey shingled home for a while.

MRS. ZELMA BYERS
. . . Chest "Oscar" winner

Blast Deaths Called Murder And Suicide

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday issued a certificate of suicide in the death of James William Woodward, 25, and a certificate of murder in the death of 17-year-old Mary Fay Combs.

The couple was killed instantly Wednesday night in an explosion in Woodward's car, parked in front of Miss Combs' home at 517 10th st. se.

Police learned the next day that Woodward, who lived in Marshall, Va., had purchased six sticks of dynamite in Warrenton, Va., several hours before he and Miss Combs were killed in the blast.

Police said they were informed the girl had been trying to break off with Woodward, who was described as being very jealous.

Realty Tax Payments Lag In Arlington

Payments of real estate taxes to Arlington County are lagging 5 percent behind collections at the same time a year ago, County Treasurer John Locke Green said yesterday.

He pointed out that deadline for payments of the taxes is Tuesday—or December 12, if citizens are willing to incur a late-payment penalty.

He said, "I've got to send the sheriff" after citizens who are delinquent in their taxes after December 12.

Green warned that the county "may have trouble meeting its financial obligations unless the percentage of collections increases."

He pointed out that the county incurred a short-term bank debt of $1,400,000 which must be refunded from the tax collections.

The total real estate tax levy this year is $5,649,000, Green said, of which only 38 percent had been collected through November 30. At the same time last year, however, 43 percent of the tax billing had been received.

Green blamed this year's lagging payments on "tighter money" and said he understood the same condition was prevalent throughout Virginia.

Dr. Tumbleson Dies at 73 in Sandy Spring

Dr. Charles C. Tumbleson, 73, one of the founders of the Montgomery County General Hospital, died yesterday at the hospital after an illness of several weeks.

Dr. Tumbleson, who lives in Sandy Spring, Md., started the hospital with Dr. J. W. Bird during an influenza epiemic in 1920. Dr. Tumbleson was a member of the medical staff until his retirement last year. He and Dr. Bird, chief of staff since its inception, brought patients into the hospital before it was completed due to the severity of the epidemic.

Dr. Tumbleson was one of those instrumental in expanding the hospital from its original 28-bed capacity to its present 10-man staff with 58 beds.

One of the two physicians on the hospital's governing board, Dr. Tumbleson was a general practitioner, being active in pediatric and anesthesia fields.

He began his career in Guilford, Howard County, Md., in 1905, making his calls in a horse and buggy.

He was born in Baltimore and atended Baltimore City College. He was a graduate of the Maryland School of Pharmacy and the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Baltimore, now a part of Maryland University.

Dr. Tumbleson was a past president of the Montgomery County Medical Society, and a member of the Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland. He was also a member of the American Medical Association and a past president of the Rockville Lions Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Gladys B. Tumbleson, and a sister, Miss Mable Tumbleson of Baltimore.

Funeral and burial services will be private. The family has requested that contributions should be made to the hospital instead of sending flowers to the services.

R. G. Langdon Dies Here

Robert George Langdon, 49, funeral director at Chambers Funeral Home, 517 11th st. se., died yesterday at Garfield Hospital.

He suffered a heart attack a week ago, and was to have been released from the hospital yesterday. He was found dead in his bed.

A native of Washington, Mr. Langdon attended Takoma Park Elementary school and Central High School here, and graduated from an undertaking school in Philadelphia.

He was one of the original employes of William W. Chambers when he started his funeral home at 1400 Chapin st. nw. about 1921.

For a few years he was funeral director at the Shippirt Funeral Home, formerly located at 20th and I sts. nw. He worked there at the time the roof of the Knickerbocker Theater collapsed under the weight of snow—January 28, 1922—killing 98. With Mr. Shippirt and a brother, the late Hugh Langdon, he worked for three days and nights embalming the disaster victims in a church near the theater.

Judge Branch Johnson Dead in Richmond

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 1 (AP).—Judge Branch Johnson, 70, of Richmond's Civil Justice Court died here yesterday.

Present-day Virginians knew Johnson as a judge. But a lot of oldtimers will remember the judge as one of Virginia's football immortals.

Back in the days when eligibility rules weren't so strict, Judge Johnson started out as a "rat" at Virginia Military Institute in 1898 and didn't end his career on the gridiron until he finished at the University of Virginia in 1904.

Experiment Ruth:

Ruth Learns to Choose Correct Cosmetic Colors

Ninth Day of Ruth's Beauty Program

By Ann Lawrence

THUS FAR in our experiment, Ruth has learned exercises to whittle her waist, her thighs and her lips, to uplift her breasts and to improve her posture.

She's learned how to comb her hair to suit her own facial features. And she's learned to make up those features to her own best advantage.

She's also added several new items to her beauty kit. Namely, a good cleanser, especially compounded for an oily skin that helps to clear away excess, surface oil and at the same time acts to close any enlarged pores that may be lurking around the nose and chin area.

She's learned to follow her cream-cleansing with a herbal astringent, also recommended for her particular skin type. This freshener also helps to seal up the pores, to lighten the skin tone, to keep it young and firm.

MAKE-UP COLORS were a problem with Ruth. How do you choose a becoming lipstick? Does the color of your hair or your eyes or your skin tone determine which lipstick, rouge and powder shades are the most flattering?

The first and simplest rule to apply when choosing cosmetic colors is to relate them to your own skin tone. Study your face, sans make-up, in the brightest daylight you can find. Look for the pink, yellow, even blue or green undertone to your skin. No one's complexion is a true pink or white or ivory. It is, rather, a combination, in which one tone predominates. A quick way to learn your true skin is to study the flesh of your under, upper arm. Here, the skin is thin and protected from the elements as it is, the real color value shows up strongly.

Once you've determined the skin tone, you can decide what to do about it. Too much pink? Then an ivory rachel powder will tone it down. Too much yellow? Then you'll want a powder in which pink is combined with the ochre tones. Remember, however, it isn't wise, usually, to try to mask completely your own skin's color. If yours is a pinky-white skin, like Ruth's, then don't try to cover it up with an olive powder, no matter how much you'd like to be a sultry beauty. You'll only wind up a mask-like effect if you do. You can play up or play down a skin tone, but you can't very well hide it completely.

For Ruth's basic cosmetic colors, a creamy-pink base was chosen—enhancing the pink tones, yet giving her color more warmth and a more youthful look than the too-white base and powder she had been wearing. Lipstick and rouge are a light, true red, called "sporting pink." Her eyeshadow may be blue or violet, her brow pencil and mascara are brown.

TOMORROW: "Short Order" Beauty.

Your Figure, Madame

Music Hath Charms to Relax You

By Ida Jean Kain

EXERCISING TO SOOTHING music can be wonderfully relaxing and trouble-freeing. To set the mood, turn the radio to a "good music" station, or put on your favorite classical or semi-classical records. The charm is to lose yourself in the music while you let go with mind and muscles. It can work wonders.

You can work out your own variations on the relaxing theme, but here's a pattern.

Let's begin with the familiar "Brahms' Lullaby" . . . and gently, smoothly s-t-r-e-t-c-h. It's relaxing and slimming. Lie on back with arms up on floor overhead and legs straight down. Listen to the music as you stretch luxuriously—push up with arms and down with legs . . . let go . . . stretch again . . . think "limp." Bring arms down to sides and rest for a minute. Now as you stretch right arm back, lift right foot slightly and cross it over left, and s-t-r-e-t-c-h crosswise. Take a turn with left arm and left leg. It's so soothing . . . but don't doze off, this is only the beginning.

TO THE STRAINS OF THAT old favorite, "Liebestraum," again lie on back, nice and comfortable, arms down at sides. Extend right arm straight up in air and reach up as high as you can, raising right shoulder slightly off floor—reach.

Now let arm go completely limp, as shoulder drops back to floor. Reach up with the left arm, lifting left shoulder—drop arm back to floor, feeling the "let go" from shoulder through fingertips. Keep reaching and relaxing alternate arms. Then drop both arms to floor and stretch them out at sides—stretch way out to fingertips—let go, melting into the floor. It's wonderfully restful just to lie still and listen to the music.

Now pretend it's "Summertime . . . and the livin' is easy." Start from the position of bending over at the waist, knees relaxed, head hanging down, arms swinging loosely at sides. Slowly straighten the body, finally stretching arms high in air. Stretch and yawn, swaying in time to the lazy rhythm of this Gershwin lullaby.

Rotate the shoulders . . . up, around back, and down, to get out the kinks. Relax facial muscles, particularly mouth and jaw. Then push away your troubles—push arms straight out in front of chest, palms forward. As you come back, feel the release. Push again . . . release . . . three times. Now push both arms out to the side . . . and release . . . push again . . . release. Out to the other side. Think "push" . . . then, "release."

The popularized classical numbers are always well known. Make sure to choose a relaxing rhythm, such as "No Other Love." Stand easy with arms down at sides. Now rhythmically move right arm across in front of body and circle it up and around in a wide, sweeping gesture. Let left foot come almost off the floor and feel the lift all through you. Repeat with left arm and right leg. That's it . . . It's freeing.

As a relaxing finale, stretch out on the floor for five minutes, warmly covered, and listen to the music you enjoy most.

Ya-Hooo! Texans Plan Football Rally, Huge, Naturally

By Nicha Searle

IT'S THAT OL' school spirit cropping out, and in this case, State spirit as well!

The Texas State Society is all hepped up about the Texas Aggies playing the Georgia University Bulldogs at Byrd Stadium December 9 and have planned a tremendous football rally on the preceding Friday.

The Texas A. and M. coach, Harry Stitler, will drop in for a while and the rest of the time the Texans will forget about school partisanship and remember only there is just one Texas.

Meeting place for the rally will be the Crystal Room of the Willard Hotel at 7 p. m.

To make the game more enjoyable for the Texans, a portion of Byrd Stadium has been set aside for them. Let's all sit together, says the Society!

TWENTY-EIGHT former Mississippians, practicing law and medicine in Washington, will be in the limelight when the Mississippi State Society of Washington meets December 9 at the Shoreham Hotel.

The Magnolia State Dance will be held from 9:30 p. m. to 1 a. m. with Dave McWilliams and his orchestra offering the music for dancing.

A TRADITIONAL baked bean dinner will open the season for the Vermont Association in the District.

The New England type fare will be served in the dining room of the All Souls' Unitarian Church, 15 th and Harvard sts., December 6, at 6:45 p. m.

A former Vermonter, Dr. Paul Douglass, president of American University, will speak on "The Yankee in the World Order" at the meeting.

Reservations may be made, before Monday, through Mrs. Edmund Freeman, 3267 Van Hazen st. nw.

ANOTHER NEW ENGLAND event will be celebrated next week. "Maine Day," in connection with the Washington Sesquicentennial celebration, will be observed December 7 with a colorful reception in the Senate caucus room.

The reception, from 8 to 10 p. m., will be built around the theme of the first Christmas observance in North America, generally believed to have taken place on tiny St. Croix River in 1604. Here, off the Maine coast, a band of French settlers established the colony of Acadia.

Senator Owen Brewster of Maine has been designated by Governor Frederick G. Payne to accept a special scroll which will be presented to the State by the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission. Senator Brewster and Senator Margaret Chase Smith will greet Maine natives and their guests at Thursday's reception Hale, Representative Charles P. along with Representative Robert Nelson, and Representative Frank Fellows.

Background music will be provided by the Navy Band orchestra and refreshments will be served.

CHRISTMAS SONGS by John C. Bigbee will be a feature of the Oklahoma State Society when they meet for an open house December 3 at the Women's Club, 1733 I st. nw., from 4 to 6 p. m.

Hosts for the open house will be Colonel and Mrs. Merton Munson, Mr. and Mrs. Z. B. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Adcock, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bigbee, Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Mannen, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. William Tyree Jeter.

Dr. Howard Lowry, president of Wooster College at Wooster, Ohio, will be the speaker at the next session of the Washington Ohio Society December 9.

The meeting to be held at the Willard Hotel, will be followed by dancing and refreshments, according to Representative John McSweeney, president of the society.

THE ALABAMA CLUB will meet at the Mayfair Restaurant at 6:15 p. m., December 4. Representative Sam F. Hobbs will be the guest speaker.

Meeting in the District Building boardroom, the federation also elected: John B. Duncan, of the Benning Heights Civic Association, first vice president; Mrs. Mary C. Buckner, Pleasant Plains, second vice president; Mrs. Edith P. Thomas, Eastland Gardens, recording secretary; Ernest S. Jenkyns, Southwest, corresponding secretary; Ernest F. And the group commended Col. Waldron E. Leonard, of the District division of Services to Veterans and War Workers, for "his unceasing care of all veterans, their dependents and loved ones."

Checks Going Out To GI Dependents Starting Monday

By The Associated Press

The first allotment checks will be mailed to 220,000 Army and Air Force dependents December 4, the Army announced yesterday.

Mailings will be made from the Army Finance Center at St. Louis, Mo., under provisions of the Dependents Assistance Act passed several months ago.

The Army, which will handle finance details for the Air Force until New Year, said that a supplemental mailing will go to about 90,000 additional dependents about December 15. This group covers applications for payments to servicemen's families received after November 14.

Maj. Gen. E. M. Foster, Army Chief of Finance, again advised servicemen to make prompt application for allowances for their dependents.

Merchants Ask Repeal of Tax On Cigarettes

Alexandria merchants last night demanded repeal of the city's 2-cent-per-pack cigarette tax on the ground it is driving all forms of business away from Alexandria.

Vigorous opposition to the tax was presented by spokesmen for the Alexandria Retail Merchants Association and individual merchants at the City Council's annual public hearing on the budget.

The budget, calling for record expenditures of $4,981,322, proposes retention of the levy which was adopted last June as an emergency measure.

At the close of the meeting, Councilman Marshall J. Beverly, who proposed the original tax, said he would introduce a motion to repeal the measure at the next council meeting. He said he believed the budget could be trimmed by $150,000, the amount the cigarette tax is expected to yield in 1951.

Irvin Hufford, chairman of the association's committee opposing the tax, said a survey indicated the tax had brought a decline in businesses other than cigarette sales. He contended heavy smokers go outside the city to purchase cigarettes at lower prices and buy other commodities while shopping in neighboring areas.

Richard Luckett, an attorney for the merchants association, submitted several letters which he said showed businesses other than tobacco stores had lost trade since adoption of the tax.

Another attorney, William Koontz, representing a drug store chain, said his client reported a heavy decrease in cigarette sales in its Alexandria stores since imposition of the tax. In the same period the chain's Arlington stores reported a substantial increase in tobacco sales, Koontz said.

Louise Lamb Gives Recital

By Paul Hume

A new singer around town gave her first recital for a local audience last night in the Arts Club.

Her name is Louise Lamb, and she is a good soprano. With Louise Dyer playing accompaniments, she presented songs and arias by Mozart, Bach and Brahms. Turning to the French fields, she chose from Debussy, Bizet and Leroux. Folk songs by Benjamin Britten and John Jacob Niles ended her list, plus one song by Hageman.

Miss Lamb's voice is of real substance. It can be enjoyed best at full volume, and up to the high C. It was probably nothing more than an affair of the moment that last night's C did not quite come off.

In the four languages common to song recitals these days, the handsome singer was comfortably at home.

The natural brightness of Miss Lamb's voice lends itself more to Mozart than Bach.

When Miss Lamb is able to reduce her splendid full tone to its exact soft counterpart, as she now endeavors to do, she will be a thoroughly satisfying recitalist.

Subtleties may well come with the final touches on complete control. It was a rare pleasure to hear Brahms' Sehnsucht, so much neglected, and to hear it given with the right spirit.

Grauer to Narrate

'The People Act' Next on Living 1950

By C. E. Butterfield

NEW YORK (AP).—Living 1950, radio documentary due on NBC Saturday evenings, turns its attention next to "The People Act." The set of 13 broadcasts is designed to depict democracy in action through dramatizations showing how citizens of typical communities have cooperated to solve economic and social problems.

Barrymore

The network will have the cooperation of the Twentieth Century Fund, tape recordings made on the spot will be incorporated. Veteran Announcer Ben Grauer is to be narrator.

The opening broadcast, "Miracle of the Mount," set for December 9, will tell how Bat Cove, N. C., built a hospital AFTERMATH REACTIONS of the storms: Failure of home lighting current in many areas brought the battery radio back into its own. Most of these are now of the portable type, ranging from pocket-size up. They made it possible for many a listener to keep in touch with the outside as the wind or snow whipped around his domicile.

In some areas, a real victim of the storm was the television antenna.

Broadcasters had their difficulties, too. Antenna towers suffered damage in a number of instances. Cases of power failure necessitated resort to emergency battery supply or to the borrowing of spare transmitters from rival stations.

It will be his seventeenth annual portayal of the role of Scrooge when Lionel Barrymore appears in another MBS broadcast of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." The half-hour version has been scheduled for 4 p. m. Christmas Eve.

Another move making itself apparent in the changing radio scene is participation of two sponsors in a single half-hour program where only one held forth before. This is to be the case with FBI in Peace and War on CBS effective January 4, when a new sponsor will take 15 minutes. The sponsor who has been handling the whole program for six years will cut to 15 minutes.

OPERA BY TELEVISION, especially adapted and presented from the studio rather than the stage, has been put on the NBC-TV network schedule for the next seven months. Eight productions are planned, two in December and the others once a month through June.

All of the operas, starting with "Carmen" December 17 and followed by "Hansel and Gretel" Christmas Day, will be in English and tailored to fit within an hour. Talent is being selected not only for singing and acting ability but appearance, too.

To sing in Carmen are David Poleri and Andrew Gainey. The "Hansel and Gretel" cast will include Virginia Haskins and David Lloyd. The latter production will have the Christmas hour just preceding the TV debut of Walt Disney in a special film with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy as guests.

ALTHOUGH he said it was his third network television appearance, Bob Hope's latest NBC-TV show actually was his fourth. It also was his best so far.

He will be back again Christmas eve, because Bobby Clark, with whom he alternates in the comedy hour series, took over for Bob while he and his troupe were entertaining GI's in Tokyo and Korea.

Hope's television show was as near a counterpart of the overseas performances as conditions would permit. The studio guests were restricted to servicemen and women.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

District Liner Suggests A 'Design for Giving'

Carmena Raffaele of 518 Four-Mile rd., Alexandria, Va., set me to thinking yesterday, and that's no small accomplishment.

Carmena and her friends wanted to do something this Christmas for a local orphanage. To her surprise, she was told that Christmas is one time of the year when we don't forget our orphanages.

"The children get parties and gifts," she was told by a worker, "and so much attention that we wish the spirit of good will could be extended through the other 11 months of the year."

As much as they get, they can always use more, of course. But Carmena suggested that I check several municipal institutions, to see whether they were in greater need of volunteer help. And here's what I found:

Joseph S. Kosisky, assistant superintendent of the District Receiving Home, 1000 Mount Olivet rd. ne., told me that his kids don't usually have much of a Christmas, but this year they seem to be running in luck. Employe groups from Agriculture and RFC have planned two parties for them.

"They can use all the good cheer the community can offer," Joe added. "And I don't mean more parties, necessarily. They also need recreational equipment and craft materials of all kinds—things that really mean 'all-year' giving."

John F. Cairns, superintendent of the Industrial Home School at 2453 Wisconsin ave. nw., said his group was in pretty good shape, but echoed the general feeling that "while we're appreciative of everything that's done for these children, we're always interested in getting more help for them whenever we can." He suggested I call the District Training School at Laurel, Md., and the other Industrial Home School at Blue Plains.

W. P. Tucker, superintendent at the latter institution, told me that his kids were doing pretty well on the Christmas party front, but they could certainly use some gifts. Things like books, pictures, a basketball or two, a ping pong outfit, and other recreational equipment.

Dr. R. J. Detmer, head of the District Training School at Laurel, is also happy to be able to report that several parties are scheduled for his charges. But he adds the same plaintive note you get at all such institutions:

"From time to time we need such things as a piano, or a pool table, or perhaps a radio or television set, and when folks come to us and ask 'What can we do to help?' you've no idea how much we appreciate their interest."

The Industrial Home School on Wisconsin ave. and the District Receiving Home are both on the District switchboard, National 6000. The Industrial Home is extension 500, the Receiving Home is extension 2992. The Training School number is Laurel 680. The Blue Plains Industrial Home is Johnson 3-4120. Any one of them would be glad to hear from you.

WELCOME BACK, COAK

Here's good news: Cartoonist LeBaron Coakley is feeling better again, and we're going to try to have a cartoon in this space each day, starting Monday morning.

YOU CAN'T WIN

We were talking about "modern conveniences" at our house the other night, and I cited the Pepco explosion that recently cut off service to many people in the Bethesda area.

"Come to think of it," I mused, "one of the executives at Pepco was telling me yesterday that a lot of folks tried to turn on their radios, to find out what had caused the power failure, and then sheepishly remembered that it takes electricity to operate a radio receiver."

"Don't they own any battery sets?" asked the lady of the house, always ready to ruin a possible item for the column. "Everybody owns a portable radio these days."

"Well," I conceded, "not exactly 'everybody,' but I suppose we do have a good many portables around. Anyhow, just think of what would happen if an enemy were to knock out our power plants. Thousands of people would have no way of finding out what happened."

"You've heard of newspapers, I presume?" she inquired.

"Yes, of course," I said. "But until they got their newspapers—and assuming they didn't own a portable radio—they'd probably have no way of getting the news."

"No telephones?"

"Well—what I meant was . . ."

"No battery radios in their cars?"

Aw—what's the use? I gave up. It wouldn't have made a very good item anyhow.

U. S. Divorce Rate Declines 7 Percent

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (U.P.)—The United States divorce rate declined 7 percent in 1949 to a point 38 percent below the all-time peak reached in 1946, figures compiled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., showed today.

Bungled Intelligence Is Charged

By Drew Pearson

In a highly secret conference with the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees, Secretary of State Dean Acheson warned that a third world war is "imminent," if not already in progress.

Acheson

The Korean conflict might spread to Yugoslavia and possibly other points in Europe and Asia "at any moment," Acheson declared.

Asked if there were still time to avoid another world-wide conflict, the Secretary of State replied that it could be avoided only by prompt and concerted action against the Russian-Chinese Communist entente by our friends in the United Nations.

He mentioned trade sanctions against the Chinese Communists as one possible solution.

But Acheson added that we must also get economic aid to Yugoslavia as quickly as possible to stiffen the back of that drought-hit nation against Russia.

"All I can say now is that the situation is dangerous—very dangerous," Acheson asserted.

Under questioning by the House committee, Acheson bluntly charged that the Korean crisis is due in large part to General MacArthur's bungling military intelligence. He specifically mentioned that military intelligence officers had estimated that the Chinese army which invaded Korea would numbers at the most 60,000 or 65,000 troops; whereas the Chinese massed almost four times that number in the Korean offensive.

Acheson told the committee that this blunder might have been avoided if we had a strongly centralized and alert intelligence agency in Washington, instead of depending almost entirely on MacArthur's intelligence scouts.

Post for Dewey

It's been a carefully hushed-up secret between the State Department and Albany, but last summer Governor Dewey discussed with Secretary of State Acheson the idea of becoming American Ambassador to Great Britain.

Although Governor Dewey's office refuses to discuss the matter, what happened was this. Early in the summer and before Dewey changed his mind about running for reelection, he asked for a meeting with Acheson. He specified that the meeting should be neither in the State Department nor in the Roosevelt Hotel, Dewey's New York City headquarters; so the two met in the home of Roger Straus, president of the American Smelting & Refining Co., whom Dewey had planned to make Secretary of Commerce if elected in 1948.

Dewey, long an admirer of Acheson, explained that he was becoming more and more worried about the bipartisan foreign policy which he felt was rapidly falling to pieces since the illness of Senator Vandenberg. And he said he would like to do something to help.

Dewey and Vandenberg have been quite friendly since 1944, and while the Michigan Senator's health was good, he was in frequent telephone communication with the New York Governor. In fact, it was through Dewey that Vandenberg came to know and respect Dewey's foreign counselor, John Foster Dulles, now adviser to the State Department.

Dewey explained to Acheson, therefore, that with Vandenberg ill, he, Dewey, as titular leader of the Republican Party, felt responsibility for foreign policy and that he would like to do his part toward reestablishing the bipartisanship which had now gone to pot.

Acheson expressed his appreciation. And out of their conversation grew the idea that Dewey would become Ambassador to the Court of St. James, top diplomatic spot in the world; then, after acquiring experience in London, would return here to steer bipartisan foreign policy back on an even keel.

The Secretary of State made no actual promise of the London ambassadorship to Dewey. But he indicated he would talk things over at the White House and let him know.

Gifford Named

Later, Dewey decided to run for a third term and the idea went up in smoke. However, the man who helped persuade Dewey to run for Governor again, the Chase Bank's Winthrop Aldrich, also knew of Dewey's foreign-policy plan, and out of this came the appointment of Walter Gifford, former head of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., to the post Dewey wanted—an appointment which has had all the politicians puzzled.

What most people don't know is that Acheson, despite the red label pinned on him by Republican Senators, had long been Washington attorney for J. P. Morgan and the various Wall Street interests. He has also known Winthrop Aldrich and the Rockefeller group which dominates the Chase Bank.

Therefore, when Dewey reneged on his budding ambassadorial career, he and his New York banking friends sold Acheson on Walter Gifford instead. That was how Truman happened to appoint a big money-raiser for Dewey to the most coveted of all diplomatic posts.

NOTE—Though Dewey wanted to promote the bipartisan foreign policy for his friend Acheson and though Gifford's appointment was sold to Truman with the understanding he would swing GOP support, it didn't work out that way at all. On the day before election, Dewey spent all day on the television vehemently denouncing his friend Acheson's foreign policy in China. It helped him clinch the election.

The Dewey-Gifford maneuvering for the London Embassy now explains why President Truman was so baffled when he called in James Bruce, of National Dairy Products, and asked Bruce to relieve him of an earlier commitment for the London Embassy.

Brewster's Ambition

Owen Brewster, Maine Senator and friend of the wiretappers, is running a sly campaign to grab a prize plum—chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

The big hurdle is Robert Taft, present chairman, who shows no intention of stepping out. But Brewster figures that Taft, as leading claimant for the 1952 presidential nomination, can be persuaded to turn over the chairmanship to a more "neutral" Senator.
